Roosevelt Calls On Public To Relieve Unemployed States And Cities Must "PLAY BALL"

DEFENSE "EXPERTS" BLOCKED IN LAMSON TRIAL

Officials of Mobilization for Human Needs Conference Hear Address

IMPROVEMENT IS CITED

Chief Executive Declares Relief Workers Base of Period of Depression

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—(UP)—President Roosevelt today called for a greater effort on the part of the public in bringing relief to the unemployed.

At the same time he warned that there are many areas minging the relief question with politics and then coming to the federal government "hat in hand" seeking federal funds.

The president's remarks in which he sounded a hopeful note of improved economic conditions were made on the White House lawn to officials of the 1933 mobilization for human needs conference.

He pointed out that it was first the duty of private citizens and private agencies to assist the destitute. That failing, the cities must step in, then the state and finally the federal government, he said.

Federal Duty
"It is the inherent duty of the federal government to keep people from starving," Mr. Roosevelt told his listeners, explain, however, that because the federal government provided funds there should be no lessening of effort on the part of others.

"There are some areas that have not done their share in meeting the relief problem," he said. "They have come hat in hand asking relief of the federal government."

There are some states and some municipalities where relief has been mixed with politics, some states where the legislatures have been thinking in political terms and not in human terms.

"There are some cities spending for political purposes instead of the purposes of human need. Those cases, however, I am happy to say, are diminishing, not because we are wielding the big stick but because we are making our objections clear."

"The people," the president added, also are "making it clear that"

ASKS HALF MILLION FOR YOUNG ACTRESS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 8.—(UP)—"Baby Peggy" Montgomery, now a girl of 14, was sorely disappointed when she failed to be featured in nine pictures, her father, Jack Montgomery, asserted in prosecuting a $501,550 damage suit in superior court today.

The elder Montgomery alleged breach of contract on the part of James and Lucille Gleason, film players; Norman Spear, producer, and Charles Padlock, former track star, all named in the suit as co-defendants.

Montgomery testified that the defendants agreed to use his young daughter in the productions and that she was to receive the same publicity as the Gleasons. After making the first picture, "Baby Peggy" was dismissed and another girl hired in her place, he alleged.

GEORGE SUNDAY IS INJURED IN 3 STORY FALL

San of Famous Evangelist Plunges from Window Following Quarrel

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 8.—(UP)—George Sunday, 40, son of the famed evangelist, Billy Sunday, was in serious condition at a hospital here today after leaping or falling to the pavement from his fourth-floor apartment.

His wife, the former Mauryne Reichard, Hollywood mannequin and dancer, allegedly told police she heard a crash of broken glass in another room after Sunday had struck her and ordered his mother from the apartment.

Sunday, conscious for a moment, whispered that he fell through the window while watering a fern.

He suffered a compound fracture of the right thigh, double fracture of the jaw and other injuries.

Mrs. Sunday was treated at the hospital for a broken finger. Her eye was blackened.

She said that her husband was suffering from a nervous breakdown brought on by financial reverses. A week ago she telephoned for his mother, Mrs. Nellie Sunday, and the evangelist's wife came from her home at Hood River, Oregon, to aid in caring for Sunday.

KING OF IRAK IS CALLED BY DEATH

BERNE, Switzerland, Sept. 8.—(UP)—King Faisal of Iraq died today of heart disease after a brief illness.

Faisal was a descendant of Fatima who was the only surviving child of the prophet Mohammed. He was one of the few real winners in the World War. He arrived here recently on a vacation that was delayed by the campaign of his army against Assyrian rebels. He was 50 years old.

He set out again, part of the way by airplane, and arrived at Berne only to take his bed, ill. It was thought his ailment was not serious. His prime minister, General Buri Pasha was at his bedside. Pasha was here because he and Faisal were concerned lest they would have to defend Iraq's Assyrian campaign at the approaching session of the League of Nations.

COTTON PRODUCTION ESTIMATE SLUMPS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—(UP)—The agriculture department today estimated 1933 cotton production at 12,414,000 bales, compared to 13,002,000 bales last year. At the same time the census bureau reported that 1,394,220 running bales of cotton had been ginned from the 1933 crop prior to Sept. 1, compared with 865,160 for the corresponding date in 1932 and 565,758 for 1931.

DR. PARKHURST KILLED WHILE SLEEP WALKING

Fighting Preacher Who Fought Tammany in '92 Falls From Window

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 8.—(UP)—Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst, fighting preacher and reformer, who shocked the country in the 90s with blistering denunciations of vice and Tammany Hall, was killed today while walking in his sleep.

He walked out of his bedroom in the home of his nephew, Winthrop Parkhurst, and passed through an open window onto the roof of a porch from which he fell to the ground.

Dr. Parkhurst was 91, feeble but still possessing a sharp tongue. The oratory from his pulpit in the 90s broke Tammany Hall's grip on New York City, exposed a liaison between organized vice and politics, and launched a reform era that ended from one end of the country to the other.

Phrase Maker
Parkhurst had a gift for phrase making. In the 90s, when it was fashionable to shudder at a public glimpse of a feminine ankle, he made the discreet precincts of his Madison Square Presbyterian church reverberate with "this city is hell with the lid off."

Parkhurst, came to New York, not a reformer, but a scholarly divine. Certain of his male parishioners confessed certain things to him. He gathered other bits of information by hearsay. One Sunday morning in 1892, he dropped his mild manner and shouted indignantly at his congregation:

"There is not a form under which the devil disguises himself that so perplexes us in our efforts, or so bewilders us in the devising of our schemes, as the polluted harp of governing this city, are feeding day and night on its quivering vitals. They are a lying, perjured, rum-soaked and libidinous lot."

Got Evidence
He was promptly summoned before the grand jury by the Tammany district attorney and forced to admit he had no evidence. Humiliated, he concealed his profession, and entered upon an investigation of the New York red light district, at that time something which would have put the Barbary Coast in its palmiest days, to shame. He came out of that investigation with evidence—284 affidavits, each descriptive of one house of ill-repute.

It shocked the town. The Lexow legislative committee was authorized. It heard 700 witnesses, its minutes filled 10,576 pages, mostly concerning astonishing official corruption.

Tammany Leader Croker quit and at the next election an aroused public removed the Tammany administration from office.

The Lexow investigation brought on the great crusade against "white slavery" which created an army of professional reformers, upset innumerable political machines in every part of the country, and gave the then feeble dry cause the impetus that was culminated five years later in the 18th amendment.

LES STOEFFEN BEATS GRANT; PERRY WINS

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 8.—(UP)—Lester Stoeffen, giant Los Angeles tennis star, today reached the semi-finals of the National championship by an 8-6, 6-4, 3-6, 7-5 victory over Bryan Grant Jr., of Atlanta.

Stoeffen's victory placed him in the semi-finals along with Fred Perry of England, who gained the round of four with a 6-4, 6-4, 6-0 victory over Adrian Quist of Australia. Grant, conqueror of Defending Champion Ellsworth Vines yesterday, put up a stubborn fight against Stoeffen, but in the end wilted under the Californian's tremendous service and volleying. The semi-final round was three-fourths filled when Jack Crawford, Australian ace, defeated Clifford Sutter of New Orleans, 6-3, 6-3, 6-4.

OIL INDUSTRY OF NATION OPERATING UNDER FEDERAL PRODUCTION LIMITS TODAY

DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 8.—(UP)—Field workers of the 12-billion dollar oil industry today quietly placed in effect the part of the NRA program limiting national production to 2,409,700 barrels per day. Roustabouts from Kettleman Hills to Pennsylvania and from Kansas to Conroe screwed down well valves to conform with state allowances set by Secretary of the Interior Ickes.

As the curb, a reduction of about 300,000 barrels per day from recent production, went into effect, higher prices which companies consider necessary to enable them to obey employment provisions of the new oil code already were partly realized.

On the west coast, the dollar figure was reached with a 15-cent increase by the Standard Oil company. In the midcontinent area the average price was 82 cents with further advances expected.

Some oil men believe the restriction will allow them to pay the estimated 250,000 additional workers which they must hire under the oil code and still make profits. Many others believe the government should also fix prices.

Authorities of oil producing states modified their own regulations to conform to the federal allowances without dissent.

Texas, which produces 40 per cent of the nation's oil, swung behind the government's program when the state railroad commission announced an emergency order reducing production from all major pools by 25 per cent to bring the state's daily production within a limit of 975,200 barrels.

The commission's order was considered a triumph for the east Texas field, which has been producing around 850,000 barrels daily. Operators in this field feared they would be asked to bear the brunt of the reduction, but the uniform 25 per cent decrease, marginal wells excepted, treated all fields alike.

Rangers of Canada Search For Four Contestants in Balloon Races

BULLETIN
CHICAGO, Sept. 8.—(UP)—International air race headquarters here announced today they had been advised by telegram from the U. S. navy department at Washington, D. C., that the dirigible Macon had been ordered to join the hunt for the two missing Gordon Bennett cup race balloons.

CHICAGO, Sept. 8.—(UP)—Rangers of southeastern Canada and American officials searched today for four airmen missing in two balloons that left here Saturday in the Gordon Bennett races.

The balloons, unreported since they sailed away with five other contestants, were believed to have drifted to the northeast. Prevailing winds probably would have

HERE'S HOW TAXPAYERS OF STATE DONATE $130,000 AT TIME WHEN ECONOMY NEEDED

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 8.—How the taxpayers of California have been reaped of $130,000 at a time when economy is the greatest need of the state is revealed in an investigation just completed over award of a contract for the state automobile license plates for the years 1934 and 1935.

A report, based on the investigation, shows the state is paying 35 per cent more for plates than necessary. The same plates for which California is paying 11 1/2 cents a pair are being sold by the same company to the state of Texas for 5 cents, it was also revealed.

Furthermore J. P. Meahan, who handled the transaction for the Kittle Manufacturing company, one of the successful bidders, was sentenced on March 20 of this year to one year and one day in the federal penitentiary and at the present time is at liberty on bond.

Facts in the letting of the bid brought out by the investigation uncover the fact that the O'Keefe & Merritt company and the Norris Stamping company submitted a price of 35 per cent lower than the Kittle Manufacturing company and the D. W. Norton Manufacturing company, which was awarded the contract.

Roland W. Vandegriff, state director of finance, explained the bid was given to the successful bidders because O'Keefe and Merritt and the Norris company were unable to guarantee delivery within the required time. This explanation was made despite the fact that the unsuccessful

Hereafter Government Will Quote Daily Price on Export Sales

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—(UP)—The United States treasury fixed a price of $29.62 an ounce today for newly mined gold which may be sold abroad and to domestic users under license.

Under the government's plan to allow domestic gold producers to sell their newly mined product at the higher world price than the legally fixed level of $20.67 an ounce in this country the treasury department hereafter will quote a price daily at which export sales will be made.

The treasury merely will act as agent, selling American gold under consignation in the world markets at the best price obtainable. Proceeds of the sale will be given to American gold producers through the treasury department.

Today's price applies to some 10,000 ounces of newly mined gold which was assayed yesterday at San Francisco and New York and

Chemist Is Said To Be An Amateur

Qualifications of Criminologist Attacked by State Attorneys

SAN JOSE, Calif., Sept. 8.—(UP)—A defense expert was charged with being a "correspondence school chemist" when he tried to testify today at the trial of David A. Lamson, Stanford University intellectual charged with wife murder.

Continuing its fight against attempts of the defense to present expert testimony, the state attacked qualifications of George A. Weber, "amateur criminologist" of Palo Alto.

Previously the state successfully blocked several other so-called experts by showing their examinations of conditions at the Lamson campus home were made "at too remote a time" after Alene Thorpe Lamson's death Memorial day.

This morning's session of the three-week-old trial was delayed until Superior Judge Robert R. Syer disposed of a pending calendar of criminal cases.

The defense opened with testimony of Philip M. Easton, San Jose pathologist. He testified his tests showed no traces of blood in spots and stains found in the kitchen of the Lamson residence. The state showed he was not certain the stains were there the day the former campus Y. W. C. A. worker was killed.

Weber came next. He was one of the most widely advertised of the coteries of scientists and doctors called to the side of the young Stanford executive charged with slandering "the ideal campus marriage" by beating his wife to death. The state claimed the motive was anger over frustrated love.

Deputy Prosecutor Herbert Bridges immediately challenged Weber's right to qualify as an expert.

The defense made a determined effort to have Weber accepted. When a previous expert was ruled out, Attorney Edwin M. Rea, chief of the defense, said the dismissal meant "half of my chance to prove the accident theory."

Bridges charged the witness with having participated in only one previous trial and also with "negotiating with a correspondence school chemistry course."

Weber recited the authorities he had studied, reading from a notebook.

"The witness has shown considerable study but negligible practice. The court is not satisfied," Judge Syer ruled.

"I have made at least 1500 blood tests," Weber retorted. Syer retorted and permitted him to testify.

"The first thing I did when I entered the Lamson home was to go to the bathroom, get out my microscope and see what I could find," he said.

Solemnly deliberative, Weber told of "snooping" about the house, peering at doors, walls, windows, spots, tracks, fingerprints and the like.

"I was looking for evidence that some one climbed over the patio door and broke through the doors," he explained.

Weber's manner was so much like that of the popular conception of the scientific detective (Continued On Page 15)

FLOODWAYS OF RIO GRANDE OVERFLOW

RIO GRANDE CITY, Tex., Sept. 8.—(UP)—Filled by torrential rains which followed in the wake of a destructive hurricane, floodways of the lower Rio Grande valley overflowed today as the river rose.

Patrols, hastily organized by relief agencies, spanked heaving levees with spades and dragged sacks filled with sand to weakened places.

E. M. Card, Hidalgo county engineer, said the flood gave indication of being more severe than that of last year when damage approximated $5,000,000 with loss of life, crops and property.

Water penetrated the floodways near Ojo De Agua and Granjeno. Residents of those two places evacuated driving their stock before them.

Jury Quarters In Lamson Trial Searched

SAN JOSE, Calif., Sept. 8.—(UP)—Fears of jury tampering today prompted Sheriff William J. Emig to search quarters of jurors hearing the murder trial of David A. Lamson. He did not reveal what inspired his action. He said he would search the jurors' rooms as well as the room where they will deliberate Lamson's fate in the belief one or more dictographs may have been concealed there. He said he may order the jury shifted to new quarters.

BURMAH WHITE CHANGES MIND ABOUT TALKING

Santa Ana Bride of Slain Bandit Refuses to Tell of Crime Life

ABRUPTLY changing her attitude of willingness to "tell all" Mrs. Burmah Adams White, widow of Thomas White, slain terror bandit of Los Angeles, has declined to tell police anything regarding the crimes she and her husband of five days are alleged to have committed.

While the platinum blonde Santa Ana girl, who was a brunette before she became what police term a "bandit's moll" maintains an icy silence Captain S. J. McCaleb is waiting and preparing to go before the district attorney today and request a complaint charging her with seven counts of robbery, two counts of attempted robbery, and two counts of assault with intent to commit murder.

McCaleb, waiting for a confession from the girl, is confident that he will get it. Police, despite her denial, are confident that the girl is a narcotic addict, so they are waiting for the effect of drugs to wear off believing that when the craving or stimulant becomes great enough she will talk.

Pile Up Evidence
While the police are piling up a mass of evidence against the girl and believe that they will be able to connect her and her husband with a long list of holdups and robberies that has kept Los Angeles terrorized since August 16,

He will request the governor to extend the execution date until after his illness—this so the executive will have an opportunity to grant another hearing after his recovery, ill in San Francisco, Ralph is in no condition to hold a hearing.

SPANISH CABINET RESIGNS IN BODY

MADRID, Sept. 8.—(UP)—The cabinet of Premier Manuel Azana resigned today under pressure of opposition elements led by Alejandro Lerroux's radical party, which contended the Cortes as at present constituted does not represent the popular will.

The resignation was accepted by President Niceto Alcalá Zamora.

A coalition of Republican parties to replace Azana's Republican-Socialist cabinet was suggested as a possibility with a view of the Cortes pending a decision on elections. If the other parties cannot agree, it was believed Azana might continue in power, with perhaps some cabinet changes.

which is presumably consigned to European purchasers. This gold is worth approximately $300,000 at world prices and a little more than $200,000 at the American price at which producers heretofore have had to sell.

The government is permitting newly mined gold to be sold abroad to give American miners the benefit of higher world prices. At the same time, export of other gold is forbidden because the government wishes to protect its enormous monetary gold stocks of $435,000,000 from "foreign raids" which ordinarily would result from abandonment of the gold standard if no embargo was in effect.

TWO WIVES SEEK DIVORCE DECREES

Two divorce suits were filed in superior court today by two wives. One wife accused her husband of cruelty and the other alleged desertion.

Mrs. Mary Ellen Coker filed suit for an interlocutory decree of divorce from Clifton M. Coker, charging him with cruelty. She accused him of using profane and vulgar language and with maintaining toward her a surly and disagreeable attitude. She also charged that her husband refused to support her in order to force

WILL ROGERS says:

BEVERLY HILLS, Sept. 8. (To the Editor of The Register.) Most of us had the impression that the late big war was started all at once by Germany deciding it would be a good time to go through Belgium. Well do you know this fellow that died, the Englishman, Viscount Grey, who at that time was Britain's Foreign Secretary? Well, according to all official records that have been published they had had dozens of conferences and communications among all these nations for weeks (all these read Col. House's books.) So, according to all the dope, this fellow Grey had quite a time arranging the war. It looked for a while like he wasn't going to be able to put it on. Now I see where Lloyd George's book says the same thing. It's awful hard to get into a war without a diplomat.

WILL ROGERS.

PLAN TO SHARE GAS TAX WITH CITIES BOOSTED

City officials of California, scheduled to meet in Santa Cruz in two weeks, are expected to vote unanimous approval of the attempt to obtain a three-way state-county-city split of gasoline tax funds. It was learned today from Mayor Paul Witmer, director of California League of Municipalities.

Cities have been making a determined effort to secure a more equitable allocation of gas tax money. Witmer declared, and will undoubtedly make a unified appeal to the state legislature for a change. At the present time, cities are dependent upon appropriations from the county boards of supervisors, despite the fact that the cities pay a large proportion of the total amount, he said.

Proponents of the campaign for the change were optimistic today following the announcement from Los Angeles that the city council, engineering department and city planning commission will lend full support to the plan and send a special delegation to Santa Cruz, consisting of three councilmen, four engineers and one member of the planning group.

The main attempt of the municipal delegates will be to get the proposition placed before the electorate at the next election, Witmer said. The cities confidently expect that if the voters are allowed to settle the issue, the new allocation system will go into effect.

It is proposed that the state, county and municipality each get one cent of the three-cent per gallon collected in taxes, based upon the point of sale.

A new court attack on the NRA, however, was on file in the federal court at Houston. In it the Panama Refining company and others ask a restraining order to prevent the government requiring refineries to make monthly reports of oil receipts and shipments. The suit was filed by F. W. Fischer, Tyler attorney who recently was denied a similar plea in the supreme court of the District of Columbia.

In Oklahoma the state corporation commission issued an order conforming the state's production with the 540,000-barrel daily allowable decreed by the government, cutting the state's production 8 per cent.

California greeted the new schedule enthusiastically, operators there seeing a more equitable basis for competition with foreign oil as a result of the order. The government's order raised the California daily allowable by 26,000 barrels to 480,000.

Considerable confusion existed in Pennsylvania fields because of adjustments of working and price schedules. A general determination to fulfill the requirements of the oil code, however, was reported.

The Rocky Mountain region took the curtailment order calmly. In Louisiana, limited to 70,000 barrels, and Arkansas, allotted 20,000 barrels, operators hailed the government's action as being responsible for increased crude prices.

Kansas stripper well operators, not likely to be affected by the order placing the state's allotment at 112,000 barrels, looked forward to a price situation which would improve their status. Governor Alfred Landon sent Secretary Ickes a telegram urging a larger allowable for Kansas when a new schedule is issued but did not oppose the current order.

FOUR MISSING AIRMEN SOUGHT IN PROVINCES

carried them north in the province of Quebec, Can., contest officials said.

Secretary of State Hull was understood to have asked Warren D. Robbins, American minister to Canada, to ask provincial authorities to join in the search. Forest rangers were ordered to scout isolated sections of the province.

In the two missing craft were Ward T. Van Orman, piloting the Goodyear IX, and Capt. Franciszek Jynke and Lieut. Zbigniew Burzynski in a Polish balloon. Frank A. Trotter accompanied Van Orman, one of the United States' outstanding balloonists. Van Orman has won the Bennett trophy three times.

Officials pointed out that both the bags may have descended in wild, uninhabited regions of Quebec. In that case, they said, it might be days before the men could reach civilization.

The greatest concern for the men was felt over the possibility that they may have come down on one of the Great Lakes.

CITRUS GROWERS OF NATION HOLD MEET

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—(UP)—Without definite opposition registered against a national marketing agreement for the citrus industry, delegates from Florida, Texas, California and Arizona today began work upon amendments to codes which would put the nation's orange and grapefruit business under the control of a central committee.

So crowded were offices in the agriculture department building that the conferees before the agricultural adjustment administration were forced to hold their meeting in the national museum.

L. M. Corey, attorney for the Florida shippers, offered several amendments which would eliminate all bulk shipments, force the use of standard containers, eliminate times, lemons and satsumas from the code, and tighten up pro-rata rules to stop possible speculation.

BANKING GROUP TO HAVE STUDY COURSE

Instruction courses for the coming year were discussed last night in Fullerton at a meeting of the educational division of the American Institute of Banking. The meeting was held in the First National Bank of Fullerton.

Two courses will be offered this year, according to a decision of the division leaders. One will be a course in credits, taught by Jack Bascom and the other will be an advanced course in investments under the leadership of Homer Cheney.

The annual picnic of the Orange County Chapter, A. I. B., will be held in Irvine park on the evening of September 21. Enrollment of classes will be held September 28.

AUTO TRADES GROUP TO MEET TONIGHT

Automotive tradesmen from all parts of Orange county will meet tonight at the Frances Willard Junior High school to hear two speakers from Los Angeles explain full details and legal phases of the National Recovery Act. The program will open at 8 p. m.

Charles Carr, Los Angeles attorney, and associate of Pierson Hall, United States district attorney of this district, and A. A. Butterworth, owner of Keystone Publications of Los Angeles, will give the addresses. The meeting is being sponsored by the Automotive Trades Association of Orange county for everyone connected with the automotive industry, whether members of the organization or not.

GEORGE SUNDAY IS INJURED IN 3 STORY FALL

"She packed her bag and walked out the front door. As she left George suddenly grew calm and cried to her:

"If you go, it'll be the end of me."

"But she wouldn't come back. For a while after she had gone George remained quiet. I called Dr. Nathan S. Houseman to dress my finger. George heard me telephone, came into the bedroom, put an arm around me and kissed me.

"I'm going down and jump in the bay," he said, and telephoned for a taxicab.

"He put on his coat and went into the living room to wait for the cab. I closed the bedroom door.

"I heard a crash."

Sunday's plunge added another chapter to his marital troubles. Mrs. Sunday was known in Hollywood by her professional name of Renee La Salle. She was named by Sunday's first wife, Harriet, when the latter divorced him in Los Angeles three years ago.

The present Mrs. Sunday filed a divorce complaint last July 17 but withdrew it a week later when a reconciliation was effected. She had accused Sunday of cruelty, said he cursed her, remained away from home and was "sullen and morose."

Today she sat at his bedside, crying her love.

GETS JAIL TERMS ON DRUNK CHARGES

Adolph Didier and Russell Perley, Santa Ana men, charged with drunkenness and drunk driving, respectively, started serving terms in the county jail yesterday after being sentenced by Judge J. G. Mitchell in police court.

Perley, ordered to serve 90 days, will be released nine days of each month when called to work on R. F. C. projects but must spend every night at the jail. Didier, who was riding with him when arrested by Santa Ana police, was committed for 10 days after failing to pay a $20 fine. The two were arrested at Second and Main streets Tuesday after forcing a motorist off the road near the Orange County hospital.

P. O. ORDERS LARGE SUPPLY NRA STAMPS

One hundred thousand new NRA postage stamps have been requested by the Santa Ana postoffice in an order to Washington, Postmaster T. E. Stephenson stated today.

On receipt of the new allotment it is planned to issue the NRA stamps ahead of the other kinds in order to further remind people of the national recovery program. Approximately half of the first order of 10,000 NRA stamps has been sold at the Santa Ana office, since they went on sale this week, according to Stephenson.

the communities and states must play ball."

In urging that every man, woman and child get behind the relief movement Mr. Roosevelt told his audience that "you have the great opportunity not merely to keep people from starving but the great social opportunity to inculcate the feeling that we have got to build from the bottom up and supply food from the top down."

In urging that everyone be made to help, the president pointed out that the economic situation was improved, that people have more money to spend, that rents are higher, better returns are being received from investments and that the country is in a more "hopeful frame of mind."

"There is no such thing as being left out of this campaign," Mr. Roosevelt remarked. "We all know the frailty of the human type that says 'let the government do it.' But the government cannot get on without you."

Declaring that the relief workers "are the base of this period," he said that he was hopeful the time would come when the nation could go back to individual citizenship responsibility. "I hope the time will come when the government will not have to give relief to the necessarily unemployed," he said. "I like to think of government relief as an emergency."

Endorsement of the Buy Now movement has been given by directors of the Santa Ana Merchants association and Santa Ana urged to co-operate, not only to help the return of better times but as a matter of economy for buyers. It was announced today by Walter Swanberger, president.

Directors of the organization stressed the fact that a marked increase in prices for all types of merchandise has been noted on goods purchased for the holiday trade. In some cases the increase is 20 per cent. This, the directors claim, is only the beginning of a substantial mark up on all merchandise.

The manufacturer, according to directors of the association, is charging higher prices for his goods, thus forcing the retail merchant to correspondingly increase the price charged the consumer.

The merchandise on which prices are being increased, according to A. Cavalli, manager of the association, is summer since the manufacturer is succeeding in selling raw material prices started. That Santa Ana consumers have not felt this increase to a greater degree, Cavalli said, is fortunate but will not continue for very long.

At the meeting of the board of directors, Ivie Stein was appointed chairman of the finance committee and Gilbert Campbell elected treasurer.

SUSPECT DENIES GUILT IN SAFE BREAKING CASE

Further details of the story given by Robert Seacord, held in the county jail on suspicion of burglarizing the B. J. MacMullen garage Labor day, were learned today although Seacord remains unshaken in his statement that he had nothing to do with the Santa Ana safe cracking and "found the Liberty bond on the floor of a Tijuana gambling joint."

Chief of Police Floyd Howard and Assistant Chief Harry Fink grilled Seacord for several hours yesterday in an attempt to obtain a confession. The $500 Fourth Liberty bond found in his possession when he was arrested by officers in a San Diego bank came from Tijuana, he insists, although he admitted trying to sell it in San Diego.

Seacord said he saw the bond with a rubber band around it and was afraid to tell officers of his find. After walking the streets trying to make up his mind what to do with it, he tried to cash it at a bank but was refused, he said. Told to visit the First National bank, he approached several tellers and was finally arrested by officers. He had $13 on his person but was attired in new clothes, which officers think he purchased with the $125 stolen from the local garage.

GETS JAIL TERM ON DRUNK COUNT

An attempt to wreck a Mexican barber shop south of Garden Grove while under the influence of liquor and marijuana proved costly for Serron and Carlos Canas after they appeared before Judge Charles Kuchel Wednesday on charges of drunkenness, disturbing the peace and possession of marijuana.

Serron Canas, charged with drunkenness and disturbing the peace, was fined $500 on each count or 250 days in the jail, the sentences to run concurrently. Failing to pay the fine, he was committed.

Carlos Canas, held under $500 bail for September 14 on charge of bail, had his preliminary hearing possession of marijuana.

ISSUE WARNING AGAINST SALES TAX RACKETEERS

"Merchants and other organizations are not compelled to buy blanks for sales tax returns," stated Phil M. Brown, manager of the Santa Ana Business Men's association, today in announcing a warning received from the state tax office in Los Angeles against sales tax racketeers now in progress.

Brown explained that attempts are being made by various persons to sell blanks for these tax returns. He emphasized the fact that official blanks will be sent all licensed businesses by the state board of equalization, in charge of the sales tax.

Thirty audits are now in the field contacting applicants and clearing up questions, Brown said.

COLLINS URGES SUPPORT OF NRA PROGRAM

Although a member of the minority Republican delegation of representatives in Washington, he supported all of President Roosevelt's recovery measures except two, Congressman Sam Collins declared yesterday in a talk before the recent memorable session when unprecedented powers were granted to the national executive. "I had pledged myself before election to vote against repeal of the Eighteenth amendment and similar legislation and I carried out that pledge by voting against the beer bills," Collins declared. "I also voted against the Economy bill as originally drafted because we have a greater proportion of veterans in this district than the remainder of the country and it would penalize us more than other districts. I later voted for the bill as liberalized, and voted for the other 10 major bills of the recovery program."

"Those twelve bills were passed with only 60 hours of debate. There was one thing which I did consistently oppose, and that was the 'gas' rule which limited debate to two hours on each measure, and I felt that therefore the bills represented the committee only and not the combined judgment of the entire body."

Appearing for wholehearted support of President Roosevelt and his recovery program, Collins said that recovery is dependent about 75 percent upon confidence in the program, and declared that all must assist the President in every possible way; preach the gospel of confidence, and the NRA will have a successful termination.

"If there are imperfections in the program, they can be corrected," Collins declared. "We must all get solidly back on the president as his program."

Vice President Bill Wells presided at the evening in the absence of President Carson Smith, and C. E. Stewart was chairman of the day. Congressman Collins was introduced by District Attorney S. B. Kaufman.

Preceding the speaking program, two flute solos were presented by Philip Hood, accompanied at the piano by Caroline Miller.

Picnics and Reunions

KANSAS
Plans are complete to care for thousands of Jayhawkers at the annual fall picnic of the Kansans, Saturday, September 9, in Sycamore Grove park, Los Angeles. The Pomona Sunflower club, Pomona ladies, will put on the famous Kansas Flag Drill and Orville Belt will give his popular bird imitations. Every Kansan in the Southland is invited and the county registers will enable friends to meet. The program will follow the basket dinner hour. Kansas tourists are especially invited. W. W. Simon of Pomona will respond.

THAYER COUNTY
Former residents of Thayer county, Nebraska, will hold a picnic and reunion at Brookside Park, Pasadena, Sunday, September 10, starting at 10 a. m. Coffee, sugar and cream will be furnished. Games and an all-day program of entertainment has been planned.

LOGANSPOUT, INDIANA
A picnic of all former residents of Logansport and Cass county, Indiana, will be held on Sunday, September 10, at Brookside park, section K, Pasadena.

While attempting to cross in front of the steamship American Legion, a 30-foot shark was caught by the ship's bow and the water pressure as the ship sped along held the fish doubled around the bow until the ship was stopped several hours later.

Wild Animals Invade Suburbs

Foxes make a night playground of your front lawn! Skunks feed from your garbage pail! Great horned owls peek through your window! Raccoons dig up your flower garden! Los Angeles' Night Nurses

Instead of chasing bold bad bandits, this actual survey reveals that radio police officers are called upon to fill hot water bottles for old ladies with sore backs, wrap up Junior's cut finger, settle marital squabbles, wake up sleepwalkers and generally put their time in doing everything except policing!

POLICE CHIEF OF SEAL BEACH QUITS OFFICE

SEAL BEACH, Sept. 8.—The resignation of Chief of Police Chief James R. Zoeter was accepted by a unanimous vote at the city council meeting Thursday night. Zoeter has held the office of chief since the election of the present council in April of last year. Lee Howard, a member of the force, was named acting chief.

Two applications for permits to operate tango parlors in the city of Seal Beach were filed by Julius A. Hammer Jr. and Mrs. Mildred Blankenship. No permits were issued as the present license ordinance does not provide for such a business. The matter was referred to the police committee and the city attorney, Burr A. Brown.

An invitation from the Anaheim Bay post No. 300 of the American Legion was received by the council inviting all the city officials to attend the annual installation of officers to be held Tuesday in the Civic auditorium.

The sum of $125 was voted for repairs to the rest rooms under the Jewel City inn. It was also proposed to build a comfort station at the foot of Neptune avenue.

The petition which was presented at the last regular meeting by property owners in East Seal Beach requesting the opening of certain streets across the Pacific Electric tracks to the ocean was returned to the council by the city attorney after he had checked the legality of the document. Victor Hayes, acting city engineer, presented a map showing the proposed openings. It is the opinion of the city attorney that a conference with the railway company and the Ord Land company should be arranged. The East Seal Beach Improvement association, was requested to select a committee of three to meet with members of the city council at such a conference.

The ordinance providing for a tax rate of $1.40 was given second reading. The assessed valuation shown by the assessment roll for the current year is $2,759,700.00. The budget prepared by the R. D. Crenshaw Company, of Santa Ana, the city auditors, was adopted for 1933-34.

Forty-one traffic cases were handled in the local court during the month of August, according to the report of City Judge Fred J. Smith.

Held To Answer For Drunk Driving

Ernest Read, 42, service station operator, charged with driving while intoxicated, was arraigned before Judge Kenneth E. Morrison this morning, held to answer to the superior court, and had bail fixed at $250.

Read, who lives at 1523 South Maple street, was arrested Wednesday by California Highway Patrolmen Vernon Barnhill and Joe Clever.

LANDELL RITES TO BE HELD IN S. A. SATURDAY

Funeral services for Charles T. Landell, 52, San Juan Capistrano business man who died yesterday from Bright's disease and complications from a minor operation, will be held tomorrow at 10 a. m. from the Winbigger Funeral home.

The Rev. Harry Evan Owings, pastor of the First Baptist church, will officiate at the services. Interment will be made in the family plot in the Anaheim cemetery, where the burial rites of the Buena Park Masonic lodge, of which he was a member, will be given. George Stinson, member of the California highway patrol, will sing at the chapel services.

Landell, who was a member of one of Orange county's pioneer families, is survived by his wife, Mrs. Martha V. Landell; one daughter, Nila Anne; his parents, Judge and Mrs. John Landell; a brother, John P. Landell, and sister, Mrs. R. C. Reid, all of San Juan Capistrano.

SMITH TO ADDRESS REALTY MEN TONIGHT

Joseph P. Smith, state real estate commissioner, will be the honor guest and principal speaker tonight at a meeting of Orange county real estate men, according to an announcement by R. J. Van Drimlen, Jr., secretary of the Santa Ana Realty Board.

The meeting, sponsored by the Santa Ana Realty Board, will be held in the assembly room above the offices of the Southern Counties Gas company on West Second street, and is scheduled to start at 7:30 p. m.

Van Drimlen said this morning that while the meeting is called for the benefit of all real estate men, a particular invitation to attend is being extended to those interested in sub-divisions as Smith has a particular message for them. He will also discuss new legislation and major changes put into effect in his office.

DANBACHER RITES TO BE HELD SATURDAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Etta Marie Danbacher, who was shot to death in Los Angeles Tuesday, by her estranged husband, who then ended his own life, will be held from the Winbigger funeral home, Santa Ana, at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, with the Rev. George A. Warner of the First Methodist church officiating.

Interment will be made in Fairhaven cemetery, where services of the Eastern Star will be given by the Matrons association of Los Angeles, aided by members of the Utopia chapter O. E. S. of Los Angeles, of which Mrs. Danbacher was worthy Matron.

WARD CLOSES STORE ROOMS SATURDAY EVE

Tomorrow is Montgomery Ward and company's last day in the store at Second and Broadway streets, according to E. L. Lucas, manager. After five years in this location, the doors will be closed at 9 o'clock Saturday night.

"While there will not be a great deal of merchandise to move to the new location as a result of our big sale," Lucas said, "it will take some time to make the transfer of remaining stocks to our new home. The removal sale was a tremendous success. The idea that it would be more economical to reduce prices than to pay the cost of crating and cartage has proven itself to be right. Another advantage of cleaning out everything possible in the old store gives us the opportunity of opening up in our new store with complete, fresh stocks; as it should be.

"In addition to the time necessary for moving, from a week to 10 days will be required for the receipt, marking and arrangement of goods planned for the opening. There are so many preliminary details to be considered, all of which call for time that I cannot say definitely as to what date the new store will make its initial bid for public acceptance."

N. R. A. Aids Employment
Due to the shortening of working hours in conformance with the National Recovery Act there are 55 Santa Anans at present employed on the fixtures and furnishings of the new building at Fourth and Main streets, increasing the local payroll over $1800 a week.

Both skilled mechanics and laborers are being paid over the suggested scale requested by the NRA, and every endeavor to give employment to Orange county residents has been enforced.

The basement of the new store is complete as far as construction is concerned. The lighting fixtures have been installed. On the main floor 250 counters and tables are being made ready for the placing of merchandise. The glass display windows have been set, as well as all of the paneling on the street floor.

To give an idea of the weight of merchandise ordered for the opening 45,089 pounds have already been received. This is but a fraction of the total amount to be carried in the store when all orders have been filled. Carrying out the plans for a modern interior store treatment the panels on the first and mezzanine floors have been designed to match the balance of the fixtures, in keeping with the idea of decorative harmony.

BIG DAIRY CONCERN BOOSTS EXPENSES $650,000 YEARLY

Adopting a program intended to benefit directly every city in Southern California, Arden-Sunfreze, dairy products distributing organization, has arranged to increase its expenditures nearly $650,000 per year as its contribution to economic recovery, officials announced here today.

Emphasizing the introduction of the company's intensive drive, 132 new employees have been added by the organization during the month of August, according to K. L. Carver, vice president.

Carver declared emphatically that every cent of the huge appropriation, added to the firm's fixed annual charges, is to go directly into wages for increased employment, and into higher prices to be paid the farmers of the Southland for their milk.

The increase in price paid dairy farmers for milk has resulted in additions to checks being mailed to the farmers who produce the milk, representing an increase at the rate of more than $444,000 per year over past operating expenses for the firm, Carver pointed out, while the additions to the payroll represented by the 132 new employees present at the meeting call for an outlay at the rate of nearly $192,000 per year.

COMMITTEE BOOSTS STATE OIL OUTPUT

Distribution of field quotas by the central proration committee of California oil producers allocating the 480,000 barrels of oil daily to the various fields and districts of the state as provided under the new code for the industry, has been completed and a resume of the action taken sent to Secretary of the Interior Ickes at Washington, it was announced in Los Angeles today.

Two Orange county oil fields were given increases. The Brea-Olinda district was boosted from 8000 barrels in August to 9400 barrels, and the Huntington Beach field from 15,950 to 18,500. The allotment of 480,000 barrels of oil daily to California represents an increase over the quota in effect during August of 26,750 barrels daily.

Court Notes

Earl Grundy, charged with sale and possession of liquor has been fined $250 on each county by Judge Charles Kuchel, and was committed to the county jail for a total of 250 days.

Nancy Schwartz, charged with drunkenness, has been fined $15 by Judge J. G. Mitchell.

C. B. Kellogg paid a $1 fine for leaving his car parked on the street between 2 and 5 a. m. when he appeared in police court Wednesday.

Russell Rohrs, 1444 East Seventeenth street, paid a $10 fine for speeding, to Judge J. G. Mitchell Wednesday.

Joe P. Chavez, Redlands, charged with speeding, paid a $10 fine in police court Wednesday.

Police News

One suit of clothes was stolen from the home of George B. Shattuck, 202 East Ninth street, by a thief who ransacked his apartment Tuesday afternoon, he reported to police yesterday.

SEEK FEDERAL FUNDS FOR NEWPORT HARBOR; ROUSSELLE TELLS NEED OF NRA SUPPORT

Word has been received from A. B. Rousselle now in Washington, D. C., that R. L. Patterson, city engineer of Newport Beach, George Rogers of Balboa, and Rousselle are in that city for a hearing before the Harbor and Rivers committee on appropriations.

They are attempting to get an all pile up in one corner, then outright appropriation from the government, under the Industrial Recovery Act, for dredging and extension of the jetties, and the money spent would put the harbor in shape to anchor larger yachts, relieve San Pedro harbor of all the smaller craft, and make the harbor possible for a submarine and hydroplane base, and at the same time develop one of the best pleasure harbors on the coast. Rousselle declared that the work would create a permanent, continuous development, which is the purpose of the government is striving to accomplish under the recovery act. Newport Beach has already spent over $2,000,000 on the harbor.

Rousselle wrote as follows: "Pouring rain—was going to see firemen's big parade, but decided to stay at hotel and try and give you a little of my trip and impressions so far as I have gone, and try and keep busy until Patterson and Rogers get here from Newport."

Political Refugees
"Arrived here yesterday afternoon, after our 14-day sail through the canal, missed all the storms and cyclones, except political ones in Havana—where we took on a crowd of Machado's defeated administration, who managed to reach the steamer hid away in banana trucks. Looks like another heavy problem to be solved by our already over-burdened President.

"New York is the same old mad-house, you dive down a subway, then another dive to get in the tramway, no holds barred, including shoving your elbows in each other's eyes, while trying to read their newspapers, before the subway heat, gas and fumes overcome you. Then a ride on the elevated railroad along miles of tenements (five to fifteen stories high), where people are sitting on fire escapes, hanging out of windows in their BVD's trying to get a breath of air that comes through their many-colored underwear flapping on lines strung across the alleys and narrow streets.

Wall Street
"The car stops with a jerk, you shoulders to help our President and administration to get over it and to the other side of better times and conditions.

"I was, like many others, half-hearted about this New Deal until I had the opportunity of seeing and observing these eastern states of massed production and humanity that depend solely on daily wages for a living and whose wages in turn create the nation's prosperity.

"The failure of this NRA plan means the dole, more taxes, starvation and the stepping stone to what it has always led to if permitted to continue—communism and what have you.

"No sacrifice or effort is too big to make to obtain the full success of the NRA. This time it is going to be One for All—or All for Nothing."

The following letter was recently received by Santa Ana friends of Rousselle's telling of his visit to Havana on the way to Washington:

"Trying to write this 30 minutes before sailing for New York. This same ship a week ago, on its way to Panama, passed here at the height of the revolution—several windows broken by stray shots—the 'Ins' chasing the 'outs' around the docks. "Three of our gun boats escorted this ship out to Jamaica—indirectly helping the cabinet and officers to save their lives and at the same time fulfilling President Roosevelt's ultimatum to them. The two hour delay is caused by the strike of the stevedores. Grapefruit is being piled up five tiers high on deck, and if the storms predicted ahead hit us, we will all have a grapefruit case wrapped around our necks for a life preserver. We were allowed ashore, but witnessed nothing but parades and wild excitement over the Machado overthrow.

"The soil is still uneventful except what has happened, and the new revolution among the woman shoppers—comparing their bargains.

"The shop owners ask $10 for an article they finally let you have for three dollars, something they swear they wouldn't do even for their own mother, and when each lady finds out that one paid $8.50, the other $7 and down to $3 for the same article, why the Cuban revolution pales into insignificance.

Away to EXPLORE the "LAST CONTINENT"

By Emily C. Davis

WHEN Lincoln Ellsworth and Bernt Balchen take to the air one carefully picked day next December and head their monoplane on a daring flight across the Antarctic continent, they will be off on one of the last thrilling adventures left in this almost-conquered world.

No human being has ever crossed the South Polar land, either on foot or in the air. To try is a big adventure. To succeed would be a triumph of exploration.

When you "read all about it" in the newspaper you can get a thrill of your own by stopping to realize that the last continent on earth is being discovered and explored in your lifetime. Not to appreciate what that means is to miss something—like living in the sixteenth century in Europe and being casual about the explorations of De Soto or Balboa.

But right now the Antarctic is as mysterious and interesting as America was when explorers were trying to find out how far the New World extended and what its shape might be.

In American exploration days, map makers drew queer outlines to represent the New World. New England they could draw with confidence, and a good deal of the seaboard to the south. But they shaped Florida like a knotty pear, they left out the Great Lakes, and a vague gesture of the pen outlined the vast northwest.

ANTARCTIC maps are in that state today. Opposite Australia, where Byrd and other explorers have done intensive research, lies the "New England" of the frozen continent. That part of the South Polar map is drawn in considerable detail. Beyond that stretches an ice-covered wilderness mainly uncharted. It spreads around the South Pole in a roughly circular mass as big as the United States and Mexico put together.

The area is 5,000,000 square miles, and only a small fraction of it has been seen by man. It is a desert land with snow instead of sand, and the rocky tips of mountains form dark oases in the icy waste. But it is not a monotonous land.

The ice and snow take varied scenic forms, such as rolling dunes, fields of "snow flowers" formed of drifting snow, cliffs of towering ice masses, and along the shore the giant glaciers. There are volcanoes, one at least known to be smoking. As for the whiteness that such a country suggests, that is often wonderfully colored by sunsets, shadows, and the magnificent aurora phenomena. The cold is intense, even the southern hemisphere's summer months of December and January being colder than freezing. As for winds, Antarctica is the home of the most terrific gales on earth.

These forbidding but fascinating shores have been approached from various angles by explorers, who planted flags for their countries at different points and named the surrounding territory after their kings and other notables. These known sectors are joined with dotted lines by the map makers in order to suggest the probable outline of the vast South Polar country.

Four years ago, Sir Hubert Wilkins flew over a corner of the Antarctic and discovered that the region of Graham Land is not joined to the continent at all. It is a separate group of islands.

THAT may be only the first of a series of surprises. Some geographers think that the South Polar "continent" may turn out to be no continent at all. It may be several islands welded together in enormous masses of ice.

This is one of the geographical mysteries that the Ellsworth flight may solve. Making the longest non-stop polar flight ever attempted, Ellsworth and Balchen will attempt to cross and return over Antarctica at its narrowest point—where the Ross Sea and the Weddell Sea cut deeply into the circular land.

This is the line along which geographers think Antarctica may be divided in two. A smaller portion may be separated from the larger by a strait obscured by ice. Admiral Richard E. Byrd and Sir Hubert Wilkins recently showed that the seas run farther inland than had been expected.

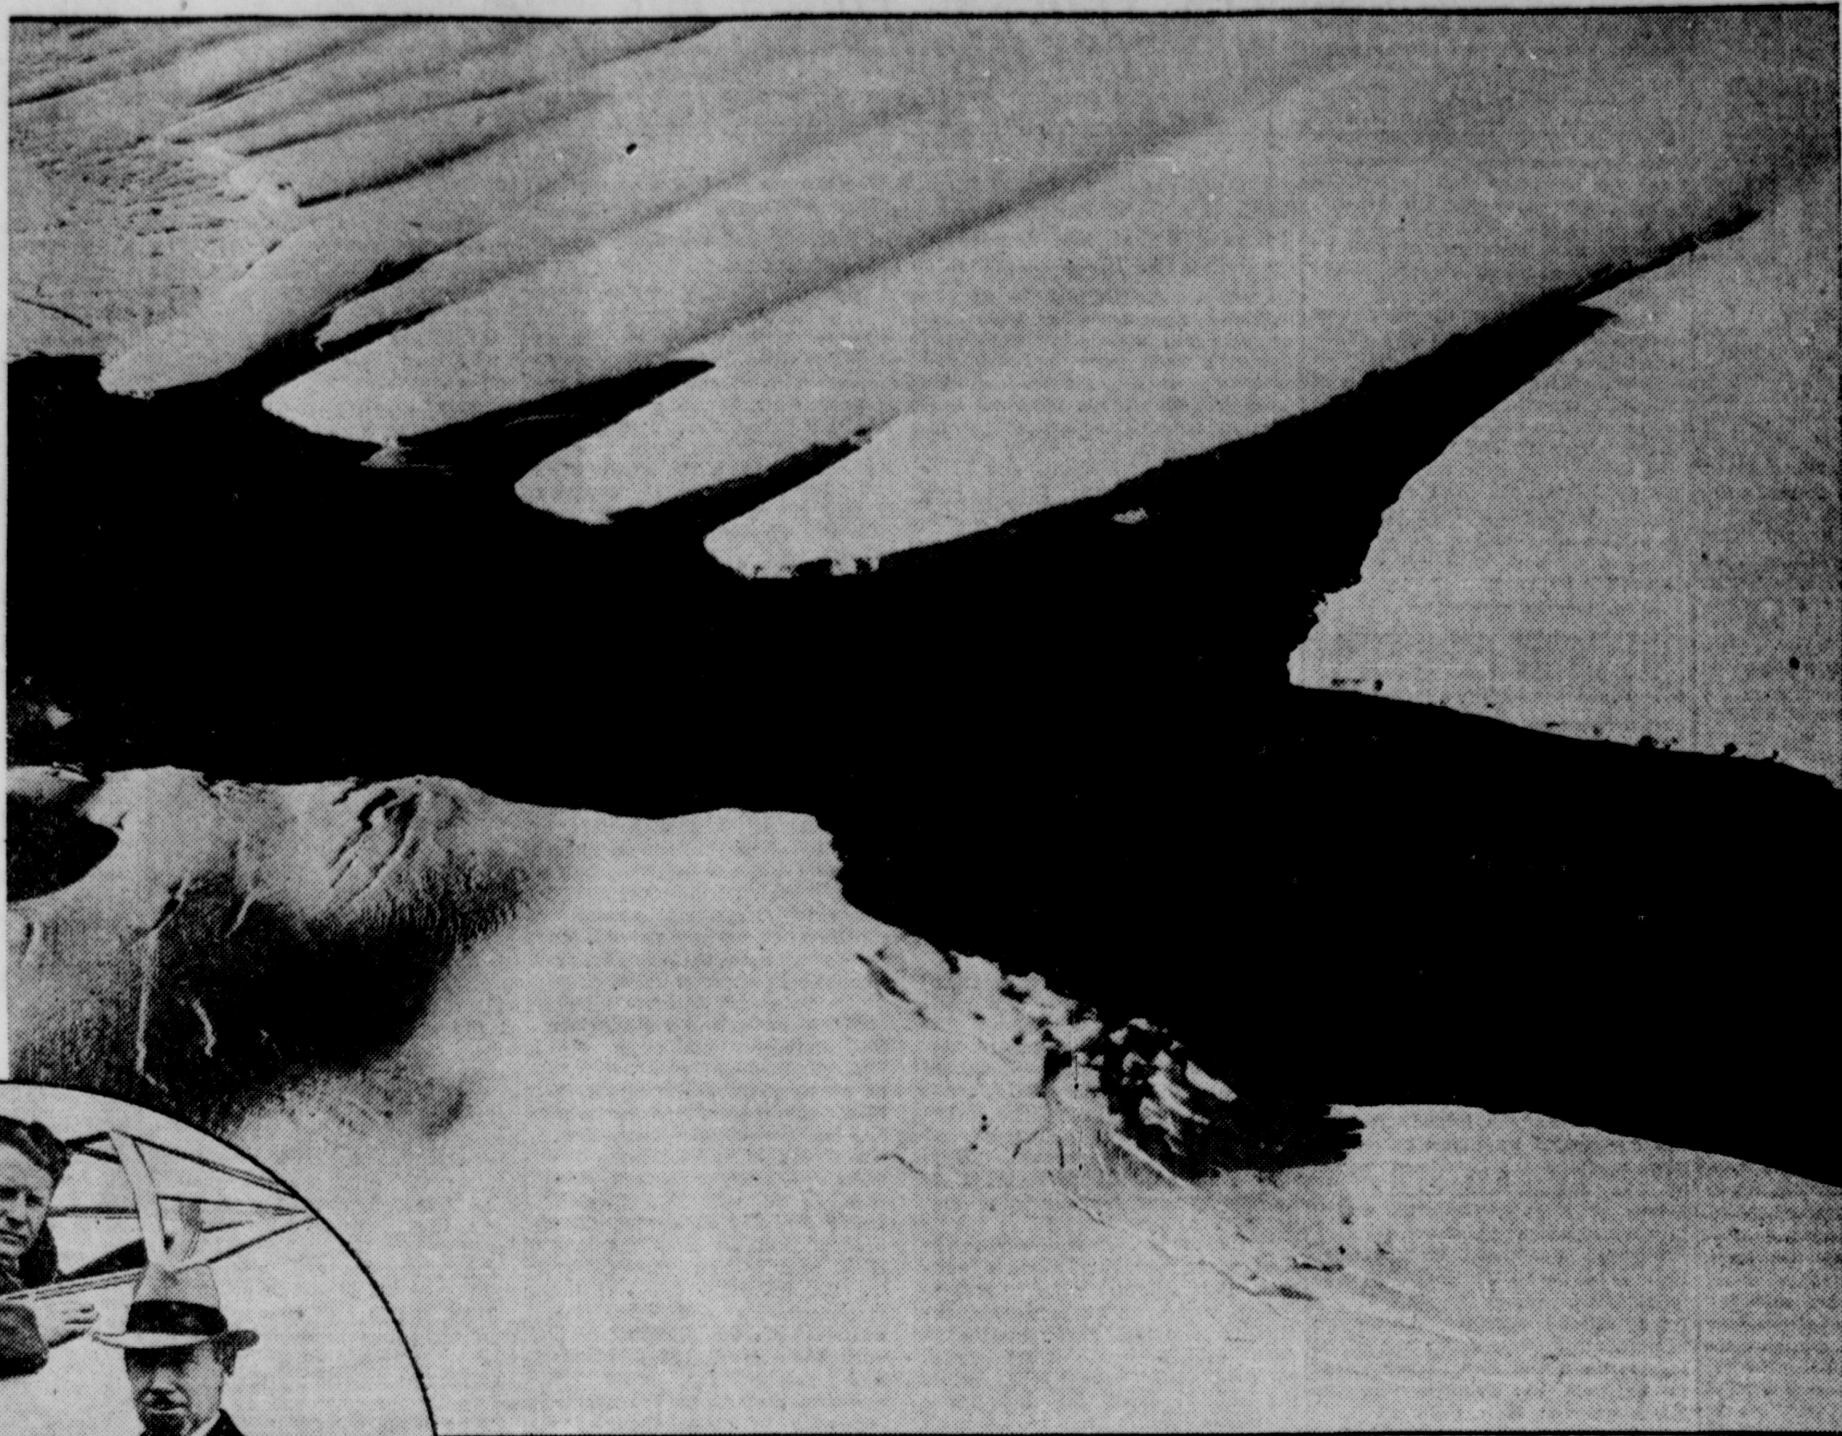

Lincoln Ellsworth, left, and Bernt Balchen, in cockpit, who plan a flight across Antarctica to extend the discoveries which Sir Hubert Wilkins, right, made four years ago. They expect to cover 2900 miles of ice in 20 hours.

So little is this part of Antarctica known that Ellsworth has estimated only 300 miles of his 1450-mile crossing have been seen by man. The middle third of the journey will be the fullest of unknown quantities. Flying from the Ross Sea to the Weddell Sea, he expects to turn his plane and fly back without stopping, making a 2900-mile journey in 20 hours.

All the way along the lonely route a clock-like camera will map the terrain, snapping a picture every 10 seconds. Given such a record, geographers at home in comfortable laboratories may be able to decide what the land mass of the Antarctic shall be called—continent or islands.

ADAMIRAL BYRD'S next expedition, awaiting favorable conditions, will also continue to gather data showing what the land is like that lies under so much ice. With a base camp only 300 miles from the Pole, Byrd is planning to explore Marie Byrd Land, which he discovered and named for his wife.

There are lofty mountains on Marie Byrd Land, with rocky tips sticking up through the ice. Such peaks are the geographer's prime clues to the hidden land. By struggling with winds and cold, a geologist can manage to gather a few treasured rock samples from these exposed points. Then by comparing the kind of rock collected in other parts of the continent he can gain an idea of how the mountains are whether aligned in chains or otherwise.

Ice tongues in the Antarctic . . . a photograph which gives an idea of the beauty and majesty of the coldest land on earth.

The job of discovering the earth is nearly finished, but the frozen Antarctic, which Ellsworth and Byrd hope to conquer, is still a land of darkest mystery

So rare are the bits of rock a geologist can find in Antarctica, that stomachs of penguins have even been searched for valuable additions to the rock collection.

For some years both geographers and geologists have been trying to determine whether these mountains of Antarctica are an extension of ranges on South America, Africa and Australia. Not enough data have been gathered yet to off times in Antarctica that Dr. Isaiah Bowman, director of the American Geographical Society of New York, once said: "Finding a fossil marsupial in Antarctica would excite science as much as a message from Mars."

Rocks are so hard to find in Antarctica that geologists have searched the stomachs of penguins to add to their valuable collection.

IF he is right, the ice sheet of Antarctica is so vast a store of cold that it is hard to find ways of appreciating it. He says that if spread thin over the earth, it would bury every country under more than 120 feet of ice. If it should melt, it would raise the oceans 100 feet and cause havoc to coastlines.

This ice, piled on top of Antarctica, is reason enough why that continent had to wait for the age of science before its secrets could begin to be probed.

Remote and fantastic as the Antarctic area seems, it is important to the rest of the world. If nothing else comes from the ice cap, plenty of weather is manufactured there, and nobody knows yet how directly it affects the weather of the United States and Europe.

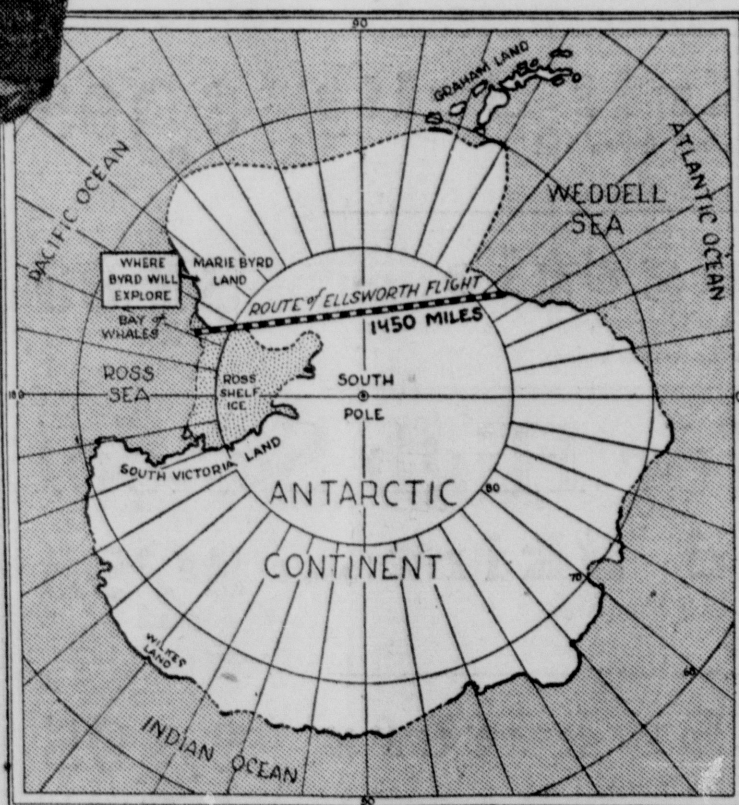

The ice patrol has reported that water from the Antarctic apparently creeps as far north as Greenland, a 10,000-mile sea journey. Between Greenland and Labrador the patrol found that the deep water was so cold and salty as to suggest strongly an origin in the distant Antarctic.

It is generally agreed that the world should be having weather reports and forecasts from its Antarctic weather factory. Dr. Bowman, in a discussion of this problem, says, "It would pay handsomely in crops and cattle and security of life if meteorological stations were set up on the borders of the Antarctic and on the island groups that girdle it."

"It is under the impulse of this idea," he adds, "that Capt. Sir Hubert Wilkins has carried on his explorations in the Antarctic archipelago for two seasons. He was searching for suitable bases for meteorological stations about the Antarctic and with daily weather reports from them by radio, it would be possible to draw charts that would trace the effects of cyclones and anti-cyclones as they move forward from breeding places out over the southern ocean."

Physicists are among the scientists who have important errands for exploring expeditions to do in the Antarctic. For one thing, they would like to have records taken of the cosmic rays in the world's highest latitudes. As far as such researches have gone, they have shown that the rays from outer space gain in intensity as the higher latitudes are reached. Perhaps the polar regions may yield facts that will help in learning whether or not the cosmic rays are electrons.

The beautiful southern auroral displays, which are like brilliant curtains and arcs, may be linked with the cosmic rays. A French physicist, Dauvillier, has evolved the theory that the rays are electrons shot from the sun and that, affected by the earth's magnetic field, they produce the aurora.

Map of the "last continent" in the Antarctic, where the explorations of Ellsworth and Byrd will be made.

answer that.

If the mountains do prove to be sections of the long chains, now broken down in part and covered by the intervening ocean, it will indicate that long ago in earth history the South Polar land was joined to one or more of the other continents. And if such land bridges did exist, leading down to the South Pole, doubtless these remote days animals and birds from South America and Africa migrated across the polar region.

BIOLOGISTS think this must have happened, for otherwise they can only wonder how the ancestors of the Australian kangaroos, wombats and other pouch-carrying animals managed to get there from South America, where the marsupials presumably had their homeland. At present so little is known about the far-cap is shrinking, but so slowly that no perceptible change takes place. Why it is shrinking is one of the weather mysteries of the Antarctic.

The thickness of the sheet is enormous, if the German geologist, Prof. W. Meinardus, is right in his estimates. It is definitely known that the South Pole is 10,000 feet above sea level, which is almost as lofty an elevation as some of the Alpine peaks. The known portion of Antarctica has a high average elevation.

But—Professor Meinardus believes that most of this loftiness is just ice. The hidden land he estimates to be not more than 2000 feet above sea level. In reaching this conclusion he was guided mainly by the height of neighboring continents.

Commander Richard E. Byrd, first to fly over the South Pole, now is preparing a second expedition to Antarctica.

PUNCH
President Roosevelt may not go to the American Legion convention in Chicago next month after all. Legion officials announced some days ago his appearance would be the highlight of the assemblage. Word now leaks out that the administration "Inner Circle," so-called, is employing all of its best arguments to keep the President out of the picture.

fully made up his mind to be present when the Legionnaires met. Grapevine reports had come in that the veterans were up in arms over unfair cuts of their compensation. The Chief Executive was determined to meet this issue toe-to-toe he taking the first swing. He wanted to jump out to Chicago and tell the boys of '17 in words of one syllable just why they'd have to take a financial punch along with everybody else.

White House strategists have heard quite recently that what looked like a tempest is now the one in the well-known teapot.

American Legion sentiment has been checked carefully, state by state. There's resentment aplenty but not brave enough to voice it at the showdown. Reports here would indicate the ex-soldiers have discovered Mr. Roosevelt is still too popular to be trifled with.

It appears most of the Legion spleen will be vented on Veterans' Administrator Frank T. Hines and Budget Director Lew Douglas.

They can take it because they are used to it.

So the Presidential advisors advise him to stay home. If nothing particularly offensive to the Administration is going to be adopted or debated, they argue, why go out and step into anything?

The "Inner Circle" is running into just one bump. Mr. Roosevelt does not want it said he is afraid to face the veterans.

If they can get around this they may mislead him from the trip. Otherwise he'll go regardless, being that sort of a gentleman.

FAIR

Any trip to Chicago would have as an important companion piece a visit to the World's Fair.

Time was when those handling the "Century of Progress" were tearing their hair because the President wasn't able to get out and open it.

Those days are over. The Fair is nicely in the black thank you and customers continue to roll in. The Illinois metropolis would be honored by a visit from F. D. R. but they no longer need him for advertising.

SPOTS

Sub-surface developments of the past week would lead one to believe the rank and file of the Railroad Brotherhoods might not be unanimously behind A. F. Whitney in his fight to have the railroads blanketed under N. R. A. Whitney is chairman of the Railway Labor Executives' Association and as such is speaking for the rail workers at present.

Joseph B. Eastman, federal co-ordinator of transportation, has said he thinks the carriers should be treated separately. President Roosevelt is "largely in agreement" with this.

There is a question of working hours per week involved. If Eastman can iron out what he calls the "rough spots" in pay-per-hour schedules there are many workers quite willing to forego the Blue Eagle and work a longer week.

EASTMAN

The Brotherhoods are now working an eight-hour day. Whitney would like to see it reduced to six. Eastman says eight hours should be the maximum but thinks it unwise to set a lower work-day yet.

Some of the old-timers in railway labor circles are saying privately the Brotherhoods should string along with Eastman. The roads aren't in any too good condition, and it might be rather hard to force an agreement for a shorter day for the same pay. Better get hourly rates up where needed and let the men work longer.

Eastman has promised he will undertake spread-of-employment and put more reasonable schedules in where needed. He also is demanding that the roads spend more on new equipment which would diffuse employment elsewhere.

Donald Richberg, general counsel for NRA, who has held that same position for the Railway Labor Executives, may well be a deciding factor in this situation.

SUCKERS

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation is sitting back with a grin all set to finance American exports to Russia at the drop of a hat.

There is only one catch. Jesse Jones and his R. F. C. board don't want the Soviet Government for a creditor.

The Federal lending agency is holding out to loan the money to some reputable American house that will underwrite Russian purchases.

Private figures show Russia has Germany, England and Italy on the cuff already. Jones et al figure the Soviet may just possibly be looking for a new sucker.

MEAT

The only people willing to deal direct with Russia are the packers. They have a surplus of meat they couldn't give away anywhere else. Consequently they have been working out a direct credit deal with the bearded boys on the Steppes.

It seems to be a question of lose anyway or possibly collect later.

NEWS

Just before leaving Hyde Park the last time President and Mrs. Roosevelt were hosts at a tea party at which their own special band of newspaper correspondents were guests. Postmaster General Jim Farley also was present.

The news men entertained with a collection of songs concocted on the spur of the moment. Here's the chorus of one they sang to Chief Patronage Dispenser Jim to the tune of "A Bicycle Built For Two":

"Jimmy, Jimmy, give me your answer, do.
I'm half crazy just for a job from you.
You won't get a chance to lay off
Until you make the pay-off—
Oh, I'll look sweet in a cushioned seat
In a well-paying berth from you."

BANKS

Francis Sisson's keynote for the American Bankers Association convention was far from the usual boloney and appeasement. It was frank and meaty and mirrored almost perfectly the views and aims of the big city banks. Two points especially deserve more than casual attention because of a frontal attack by the banks on three aspects of the new deal that they don't exactly cherish: deposit insurance, the Securities Act, and the abolition of affiliates. The banks aren't going to pussyfoot on these any longer. Publicity and every other available weapon will be pressed into service in a drive to get these "legislative atrocities" amended.

A bank reform program designed and sponsored by bankers themselves was foreshadowed in this column recently. It will be a Big Bertha in the campaign.

Second—and mark this well—was Sisson's comment about "fewer banks, more adequately capitalized." That will be the cornerstone of big bank policy in relation with the government. They hope the stone will bag two birds —eliminate the weak sister banks for keeps and increase big bank influence in the long run.

Note also that these ideas primarily represent New York and Chicago views. The little fellows—and there are lots of them in the A. B. A.—may not take so kindly to gradual self-elimination. Very few care about affiliates. Many want deposit insurance and want it a lot. There's plenty of opportunity for fireworks and its a pretty safe bet you'll see some.

Moreover publicity is a risky weapon for amateurs. It's apt to backfire. Neutral New York observers are skeptical about the bankers' ability to gauge public sentiment correctly. "So far they have been as in tune with the public as a Hottentot at the North Pole." So the publicity campaign to sell big bank ideas may bring curious results. It will be worth watching.

SUPERVISION

Meanwhile federal authorities are quietly but firmly asserting their authority over the banks in various important directions.

For one thing they are exerting effective pressure to compel certain banks to strengthen their capital structure. If the banks in question are unwilling or unable to do this through the R. F. C., it becomes a question of assessments on stockholders. This has not been tried in New York because there is no need for it here but it is working in some sections even though there is doubt as to the government's legal position in demanding such action.

The idea is to fortify the national banking structure against any possible risks that might develop when deposit insurance goes into effect. All national banks now in operation must emulate Caesar's wife. Non-member state banks are a different breed of cats and whether they can qualify for insurance is up to them. If they can't make the grade it's their hard luck.

The net result will be to hasten the trend toward a unified banking system under Federal Reserve control. New York understands high treasury officials regard this as the only safe and sound solution. The aim is to work it out with a minimum of political excitement by making it a process of natural selection.

The federal government is also showing a lively if unpublished interest in the personnel selected to run reorganized banks. Officials not up to their jobs are being weeded out. Insiders say that the days when the butcher, baker or candlestick maker could set up a bank as a side line are gone forever.

AFFILIATES

There is more to the desire of certain banks to keep their security affiliates alive than meets the eye. The argument advanced is that they are needed to assist in government financing. The real motive is to maintain a skeleton which can rapidly take on profitable flesh if the "new deal fever" passes and the good old days return. The informed believe it's a mighty long shot hope.

When "Tex" Oliver's merry-mongers congregated Monday at the university of Arizona for their first football practice, I wonder whether Arizona's president will be the alert Oliver, who has a good sense of humor, to repeat the story they tell on "Greasy" Neale, who coached with distinction at Washington and Jefferson and other colleges.

When Neale reached the little town in the south where he was to take charge of the football squad, he was greeted enthusiastically at the station by a well-meaning committee, a band, cheerleaders and the college prexy. Neale descended from the train willingly, followed closely by a group of young huskies.

"We are glad to see you, Mr. Neale," said the president cordially. "Welcome to our city! But who are the young gentlemen with you?"

"They," replied Greasy Neale, "are the members of my football team."

Clair Preininger, one of Santa Ana's three able quarterbacks at year, will join "Red" Kiddier and Doug Hinesley as freshmen at Southern California September 15.

"Rusty" Ledbetter, 188-pound fullback of Brea-Olinda's eleven, goes to Stanford October 1 along with Paul Spennetta, Orange Hill, Cal. Varner, captain of Fullerton's javayee outfit, has moved on to California, and "Bully" Bill Ingram has already named him as No. 2 fullback.

"Warner," said Ingram in print, "is the dashing, smashing crash-back the Bears have lacked since 'usty' Gill." Ingram picked Varner while nominating three tentative first string eleven that start practice September 15, Santa Ana's "Toy" Blower was picked to left half on the No. 1 team.

Reese Greene, the new assistant coach at Santa Ana, is a red-head from Iowa State. He made matters in four major sports, including basketball, and one of his assignments will be that of a coach to lead Santa Ana out of the basketball wilderness. When Greene is not coaching he will be employed as a "reader" in the class of typing instruction.

The toughest schedule in many years awaits new Coach Bill Foote. Beginning September 23, the Saints meet Orange, Santa Barbara, Covina, Pasadena, San Diego, Fullerton, Glendale, Alhambra and Long Beach, and there's not a "breather" in the bunch.

Pre-season dope estimates Santa Ana, Alhambra and Long Beach as the toughest, with Long Beach likely to return to its old stand as conference champion.

If Cook brings his men whole through that cauldron of competition he'll again be the "miracle man" of 1929.

PREDICT VINES' COMEBACK

Torrance, H. B. Renew Series

NIGHT LEAGUE FINALISTS VIE FOR ODD GAME

Huntington Beach and Torrance start all over again tonight. Each holding one game, the National Night league finalists struggle at Huntington Beach for the precious advantage of victory in the third start of the series.

Although Huntington Beach is still picked to win by most of those "experts," the playoff, Torrance has a chance off its showing in the second game Tuesday night. Louie Neva apparently regained his first-half form in that tussle, and his colleagues recovered some of their lost confidence with Neva hurling shutout ball, for they hauled well behind him.

Neva and "Chico" Sabella will be the starting moundmen again tonight, with Sabella a slight favorite.

Neither manager, Joe Rodgers of the Oilers or "Spud" Murphy of the Terrors, planned lineup changes. They said they would stand pat on the rosters that went postcard for the No. 1 and No. 2 battles.

Hoop Teams To Get Early Start At 'Y'

Promise of an early start in basketball came from a meeting of team representatives last night at the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A. to complete arrangements for the Commercial league.

A limit of teams to be admitted was set to six, with the deadline for applications September 13, the split schedule beginning October 10.

Four teams already have taken places, leaving but two to be filled, with several groups interested.

Eligibility rules provide that all players must be actual employees of the firms under whose names they play. Part-time employees must have been employed before Sept. 2.

The government of the league will be committed to the care of a special board of arbitration, to be composed of three men appointed by team managers. These arbitrators are not to be players, and all questions as to differences and disputes will be referred to them for decision.

Last year's Commercial league included four teams, the First National bank, Joe's grocery, Weber Baking company and the Orange County market. In addition to these, a team probably will be entered by Continental Stores for the new season, leaving but one franchise open.

A meeting of team representatives will be held at the Y. M. C. A. next Wednesday at 7 p. m. to complete organization, select referees, turn in lists of eligible players and arrange the schedule.

S. A. WOMEN BEGIN TEAM MATCH DRILL

GIANTS, PIRATES IN CRUCIAL BALL GAME

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—(UP)—This may be the big day in the National league pennant race, according to those experts who appreciate the importance of psychology in baseball. They figure that the winner of today's final encounter between New York and Pittsburgh will receive sufficient mental impetus to race on to the pennant.

With both outfits trotting out their best hurlers for the supreme test, defeat is expected to crackle like the morale of the losing club and shoot it into a tail spin like that of the Boston Braves.

So today, mighty Carl Hubbell of the Giants and Larry French of the Pirates both masters of the screw-ball, were slated for a mound duel.

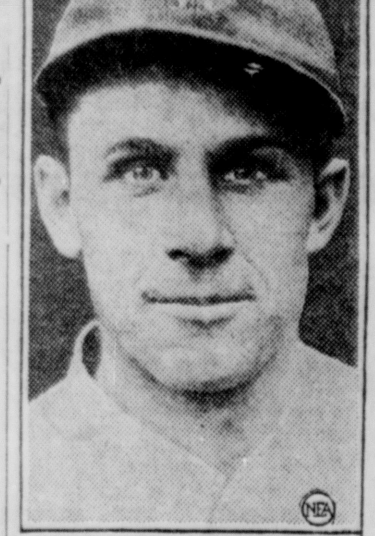

The Pirates whittled the Giants lead to 5½ games yesterday by crushing them, 14 to 3, for Pittsburgh's 12th victory in 14 starts. "Bud" Peirce, one of New York's ace pitchers, was blasted off the mound in the first frame.

HIS DAY

Sooner or later all ball players have their days—good and bad. Ossie Bluege's red-letter day will come Sept. 9, when Postmaster General Jim Farley will preside at festivities for the Senator third sacker at the Washington ball park. Ossie was one of the 1924 and 1925 Senators who played in the world series.

WILLIAMS, BIG TACKLE, JOINS HI'S PRACTICE

Roland ("Big Boy") Williams, regular left tackle, joined Coach Bill Foote's Saints in their football workout at Santa Ana high school today. Williams was the only new aspirant in a group of 50 candidates taking part in the morning drill.

Although off about eight pounds, Williams, at 184, is still the tallest and one of the heaviest of the Saint players. Foote expects Williams to regain the lost tonnage in the first month of practice.

Bill Hawkins former star athlete at Frances Willard and a husky backfield prospect, checked out a suit yesterday but was not on hand.

Williams teamed with Bain Alexander at tackle in an eleven containing "Butch" Schultz and Dick Shepard, ends; Russell Abbey and Richard DeSmet, guards; Earl Halderman, center; LeRoy Levens, quarter; Major Anderson and Ray Clark, halfbacks; and Art Stranske, full.

Schultz, at left end, figured rather prominently in several end-around plays. He is built on the same order as Clarence Bolton, all conference on Santa Ana's Coast league championship squad last year.

Myron Newton and Fred Erdhaus, both in line for regular wing positions, were placed at end in another combination finding Harold Willis and Fred Towler at tackle, Captain-elect Ford Underwood and Gordon Almas at guard, and Charles Roemer at center; Warren Mann, quarter; Walt Hendrie and Ray Hiett, halfbacks; and Dick White, full.

Early developments indicate that Newton and Schultz, ends; Williams and Alexander, tackles; Captain Underwood and DeSmet, guards; Halderman, center; Waldo Smith, quarter; Hendrie and Hales or Ray Clark, halfback; and Stranske, full, will open the season against Orange two weeks from today, although only Williams, Underwood, Stranske and Hendrie are definitely classified as regulars at the present time.

'TINY' TO BUILD SCORING TEAM FOR STANFORD

(Following is the fourth story of a series describing 1933 Pacific Coast college football teams.)

BY HERBERT LUNDY

PALO ALTO, Sept. 8.—The Stanford Cardinals—question mark of the conference—will be a passing team this year under genial, crooked-nose "Tiny" Thornhill.

Stanford will have just one goal in mind no matter where it is on the field. That will be a touchdown-team, not a first-down team. In other words, Claude Thornhill, who played at Pittsburgh under Glenn Scooby Warner, who was the quiet and unmentioned 250-pound coach of the Stanford line for 11 years under Warner, has renounced one of the old master's leading theories.

Warner, whose shoes "Tiny" fills this season, was an inveterate first-downer. He liked first downs so well he tried to get games scored that way.

Predicts More Open Play

"Tiny" came out today with the answer Stanford fans and alumni have been awaiting. Without giving all his ideas he let it be known that many of Stanford's tactics this season will be out of the Thornhill skull.

"First downs are of no meaning," said the heretical Tiny. "This year you will see more open play than ever before. Not only at Stanford, but at California, St. Mary's and all up and down the coast. The safety-first game is gone."

"Tiny" has in mind a new fan out of the middle that isn't exactly a shift but is deceptive. He may bring back the discarded one wing back formation. He may use Warner's old "A" formation, then vary it to a hitherto unused design of his own. Passes may shoot out from anywhere, but the Cards won't kick after they are 30 yards out from their own goal-line unless compelled to.

Bans Secret Practice

"Tiny" is going to knock the black hat and white rabbit business out of football on this campus. No more secret practices. He wants to give the team back to the students.

"Tiny" will dress his players up in the flaming red shirts and red socks of old. No more white jersey stuff.

Here's what the 1932 All-American tackle figures he will have when practice starts September 16:

1. Thirteen lettermen, including six 1932 regulars, will not answer when the roll is called.

2. Twelve lettermen, including five 1932 regulars, will answer "here."

3. Good backfield men will tumble all over themselves, leaving Assistant Coach Ernie Nevers with his chief problem one of the selection.

4. The line, with a gaping hole at each table, is the leading brow-creaser.

Tackle Positions Chief Worry

If Henri La Borde, a regular, comes back as scheduled, the tackle situation won't be so bad, but he may not show up. Ben Palamounian, sub, showed great promise last season.

Jim Moscrip, ex-frosh, and Al Norgard, 1931 letterman, should fit in at ends. Don Colvin, Bill Doub and Jay Todd graduated.

All-American Bill Corbus will be back at guard. Ted Kite, his running mate, will have stiff competition from Bob O'Connor, sub, and Woody Adams and Larry Roubie, ex-frosh.

If Bill Sim plays like he did last year at left half, he will have no trouble with his new quarterback shift.

Bob Hamilton, smooth-performing half from the frosh, has the edge for Sims' old berth. Anything can happen at right half, with John Reiser, frosh speedster; Ken Afflerbaugh, two-year letterman; and Bob Maentz trying for the job. Maentz, driven out before last mid-season by injuries, did well in early games.

Grayson Fine Prospect

"Tiny" agrees implicitly with the departed "Pop" that young Bobby Grayson is a lulu. "Tiny" shifted the ex-froshman halfback to full, and with his present weight of 195 pounds and his speed he may develop into one of those all-time grid heroes you read about. He can kick, pass, receive and carry the ball.

Grayson will have to live up to advance notices, however. Jack Hillman, two-year veteran, lost his post last season only because

Seek To Change Date For Don-Frosh Tilt

Efforts will be made to change the Santa Ana-U.S.C. freshmen football game from Saturday to Friday night, September 22, it was learned today from Coach Bill Cook of the Dons.

Prefering the Friday date, the Don mentor feels certain that "Jeff" Cravath, newly-appointed coach of the Trojan frosh, will agree to the change, as well as to play the contest in the evening at the Municipal Bowl instead of in the afternoon at Poly field.

The Dons defeated the Tro-Babes, 13-7, in Los Angeles last season for the first time since 1928.

NEWCOMERS TO PUSH VETERANS FOR DON POSTS

Significant facts came drifting out of Santa Ana junior college's initial football drill at Poly field yesterday.

One thing was definitely established, that Orange county prep schools have made one of their best contributions in recent years to the Dons, and sufficient talent to make Coach Bill Cook's returner wrestling desperately for positions.

Prospects for the backfield are brighter than those for the line, although forward wall candidates are plentiful and promising.

Kroener Moved To End

Frank Kroener, lanky center from Orange, will be shifted to a wing position, probably left end where he lined up yesterday. Kroener teamed with Paul Perlin, former Saint, on Cook's first squad.

Ray Hapes, Garden Grove sensation, probably will alternate with Sophomore "Porky" Bell at quarter back this season, with Harold Welty and Bill Bouldin, returning lettermen, shifting to fullback.

Wilburn Anderson, South Pasadena transfer, may be seen at right half instead of fullback. His 175 pounds, well distributed, Anderson is husky like Robert Phipps, but not as tall as the reserve halfback from Garden Grove. Phipps reported yesterday.

Predict Squad of 60

If new candidates keep rolling in as they have since Tuesday, Santa Ana will start off Monday with a squad of approximately 60. Newcomers yesterday were Elmer Ameling and Walt Gunther, of Orange; Ernie Arnett, John Henderson, Jim Krueger, Alex Clark and Cliff Baxter, "Red" Devine, husky and aggressive lineman from Garden Grove HI, has told Cook that he will report next Monday.

Following a brief period of limbering-up exercises, the Santa Ana coach and his new assistant, Ed Adams, divided the first turnout into squads, with Ex-captain Jim Hall teaming with Bell, Anderson and Bouldin in the first-string backfield. Later in the afternoon, Hapes and Horton alternated with Bell and Bouldin. The workout was devoted to dummy scrimmage, in which the Dons were given the numbers of their plays and ordered to execute a few passes.

COACHES' SONS AT U. C. L. A.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 8.—There will be two Harry Trotters and two William Spauldings in Bruin football this year. Harry, son of track and assistant football coach Trotter, makes his debut on the varsity. Young Spaulding will be a quarterback on the freshman eleven.

of a knee injury. Furthermore, Stan Anderson is in shape. "Tiny's" worst worry should be his schedule. The Cards open with San Jose State, then meet U.C. L. A. and Santa Clara on successive Saturdays. Stanford then enroute for Chicago, plays Northwestern Oct. 14, returns to play San Francisco at Kezar stadium Oct. 21, then is off to meet Washington at Seattle Oct. 28. "Tiny" tapers off with the Olympic club Nov. 4, goes south for the annual kicking by Southern California Nov. 11, rests at home against Montana Nov. 18, and winds up with the "big game" against the Bears in Stanford stadium Nov. 25.

Tomorrow—Oregon State.

SPEEDING UP GOLF!

Golfers of El Paso, Tex., proved themselves swifter than the golfers of Columbus, O., the other day. The southerners sped a golf ball around a regulation course in 18 minutes, 5 seconds.

The best golfers of Columbus could do was 20 minutes, 41 seconds, but in extenuation it may be said there were 27 golfers and a few caddies working out on the ball at El Paso, and probably the Texans were on horseback, whereas there are no horses but only state legislators in the Ohio capital.

NO LESSONS NEEDED

While this seems contrary to the old spirit of golf, especially as played on Sunday by the slow-motion foursome just ahead of you, the game has a few things in its favor. It gets the game over quickly, and you do not have to take lessons from a professional.

Come to think of it, the pros advise you to play carefully and study each putt with due deliberation. The new-style golfers may be able to get the game down to the point where 18 holes can be negotiated in less time than it used to take Bobby Jones to make one putt.

Twenty minutes seems to be a long time for a round, but the game is only in its infancy. After what jocularly was known as prohibition has been repealed, consider the incentive the 19th hole will offer to advocates of speeding up the game.

Officers Get Orders To Protect School Children

COOPERATION OF MOTORISTS IS REQUESTED

Capt. Henry C. Meehan of the California Highway Patrol today announced appointment of Officer George Peterkin to supervise transportation and general safety in the schools and at the same time warned all motorists to exercise extreme caution in protecting children on the streets and highways.

Meehan said that all officers of the patrol have been given strict orders to arrest all motorists guilty of endangering the lives of children through any act of carelessness, regardless of intent. He also announced that ignorance of the law would not be accepted as an excuse.

"No protection can be given the children if such excuses are accepted by the officers," Meehan said. "It has been our experience that motorists who know better will plead for leniency on the grounds of ignorance of the law and still the killing and maiming of children continues. The only way to stop it is through strict enforcement."

"I cannot conceive of any motorist in this county remaining in ignorance of the law requiring the motorist to stop for school busses that have stopped to load or unload children, or to stop for the children at street intersections or school crossings. These two items have been laws for years and our department has conducted a sweeping campaign of publicity regarding them."

Peterkin who has been in charge of school safety work for the past two years has also been appointed safety chairman for the Fourth District Parent Teachers' association.

Gives Safety Advice

Today he offered the following advice to parents and motorists. His advice is based on experience gained through investigating accidents involving children either on the busses or walking to school. He said:

"On next Monday most of the schools will open and the highways will be crowded with little children. Remember that many of these little tots will be attending school for the first time and will be bewildered and panicky. Parents should accompany these little children to school for several days at least until they are used to traffic and the various hazards encountered on the way to and from their school. A very definite route should be picked and the child given strict instructions to follow that route during the rest of the term and also advised as to their actions at the crossings, etc. Remember your instructions and firm insistence on those instructions being obeyed may save that child's life.

Prohibit Skates

"The use of roller skates and scooters on the way to school should be forbidden for the children will not remove them at the intersections but will use them in crossing the streets. Forbid the use of skates and scooters on the way of and from school and restrict their use to the sidewalk in front of the home after school. A child on skates is absolutely helpless before oncoming cars or trucks."

"Mothers should not take their children to the curb and shoo them across the street on the run. Take the child across and teach the child never to cross the street on the run, but to wait until the crossing can be made in safety at a walk. I have found in checking the accidents during the past several years that sudden dashing into the streets has been the biggest cause of accidents. The faster children run the more excited they get—and the same holds true for the motorist who could dodge if necessary if the child was walking. The important thing is to teach the child NOT TO CROSS IF CARS ARE NEAR. NEVER, NEVER give the child the idea that cars must stop for him even in a school crossing. That may be the law but that doesn't make it safe."

On Open Road

"Where there are no sidewalks the pedestrian must walk on the left side of the highway and although the law gives the pedestrian the right to use the pavement we teach the children that the only safe place is on the shoulder of the road and out of the path of cars. Since the bicycle fad has started I find older people setting a wrong example for the younger children by riding their bicycles on the left side of the street. This is all wrong as bicycles are vehicles and as such must travel down the right hand side of the street the same as cars and should be ridden in a straight line near the curb and not wobbled all over the street. If ridden after night lights are required. Flashlights may be used but must be turned on continuously while the bicycle is in motion."

"Stress the point to all children that they must not catch or beg rides. Strangers must be avoided. There are degenerates making a practice of waylaying children and I have made several arrests of such and have learned much that would horrify the general public."

"The bus drivers are under strict supervision and the busses are periodically inspected so that parents need not worry about the safety of their children on the bus other than for the acts of the public. Children on the bus will be under strict discipline so that the driver can give his entire attention to traffic. Children failing to behave on the bus, thereby endangering the others by distracting the attention of the driver, will not be allowed to ride after the parents have been notified. This is a ruling of the state board of education."

Stop For Busses

"When meeting a bus which has stopped for the purpose of loading or discharging school children all motorists must bring their cars to a stop. Don't make the mistake of passing if the bus is on the other side of the street and headed toward you as the direction of side of the street makes no difference. Several children were frightfully injured last year by motorists who knew that children were getting off the bus but did not think that they had to stop. In every case arrests and convictions followed."

"The careless actions of any children or bus drivers in any district should be reported promptly. People residing in the district can raise the standard of safety at their school by checking and promptly reporting such. The local safety chairman of the P.T.

ARREST MOTORISTS ON DRUNK CHARGES

Arrested when they drove into a filling station at Second and Main streets, Russell Perley, 20, 1215 North Ross street, was charged with drunk driving and Adolph E. Didier, 21, 336 East Walnut street, was charged with drunkenness. Both were lodged in the county jail yesterday.

A. E. Wallace, 501 East Washington avenue, reported to police that he was nearly forced into the ditch by the two men while driving near the Orange County hospital. He trailed the car into Santa Ana and notified police, who made the arrest at the service station. Officers A. L. Steward and Joe Murillo, who confiscated the car and took it to a parking station, reported that the brakes were completely worn out.

S. A. MUNICIPAL BAND CLOSES PARK CONCERTS

Closing its summer season of weekly concerts, the Santa Ana Municipal band last evening presented a fine concert of a varied and popular nature. The band in its farrowed program under direction of James Son, favored the audience with many of the numbers which it has requested to be played throughout the season, and the audience was duly appreciative. Although a cut in budget has forced a definite step in diminishing the size of the band, last evening's concert as well as all the other season's concerts served to prove that the relative standard has remained intact, those present declare.

Opening with the march, "Northwind" by W. P. Chamber, a fine militant pace was set and served as a splendid background for the brilliant overture to the opera

"William Tell" by Gioacchino Rossini. Mr. Zingals, solo trumpet of the band next presented a solo, "The Lost Chord" by Sullivan. The number was interpreted with fine sensitivity and musicianship. Following came a selection from the Oscar Strauss light opera, "The Chocolate Soldier."

Ellenberg's "Mill in the Forest" proved both popular and amusing to the audience of last evening's concert. Distinctly in the lighter vein of music, this characteristic number was a delight to the listeners. The waltz, "Jolly Fellows" by Waldteufel was something novel in the way of waltzes, and was thoroughly enjoyed. The program closed with Victor Herbert's splendid "Pan-American," one of his latest works, and the "March Militaire Francaise" by Saint Saens.

Many expressions of appreciation for the fine work of the band during the summer were heard at the close of the final concert of the season.

DISCUSS NRA PROVISIONS AT BUILDERS' MEET

Dr. C. J. Ruley of Santa Ana appeared as the chief speaker, when the Orange County Builders' Exchange met in the Newport Beach city hall last night in one of a series of meetings the body is holding about the county, cooperating with the various chambers of commerce.

Addressing a crowd of local contractors and builders and others, Dr. Ruley spoke on the topic, "NRA," pointing out that business and labor activities may be collected under two headings, selfish interests and altruistic interests. The former accounts for the present condition of affairs, and the second, he said, is the way out. Frederick Sanford, secretary of the Exchange, explained the good and bad points of the new code, and called attention to some of the more recent new state laws and their application to fair competition in business.

Others appearing on the program in brief addresses were George Macleod, who guaranteed the cooperation of the Newport chamber; G. L. Vance, a Fullerton roofer; I. W. MacFarlane, Santa Ana electrician; W. J. Deane, Santa Ana furniture dealer; and George Russell, Newport contractor.

The next meeting of the series will be held Tuesday evening, September 12 at Costa Mesa meeting. The Woman's clubhouse, with A. L. Foster of Fullerton, the Exchange president, in charge. This will be a dinner meeting and will be called for 6:30 p. m. Harry W. Adams of the Security First National Bank of Los Angeles will bring up-to-date information on the two and one-half per cent sales tax. Sanford will have late information from the state code hearing that is to be held in San Francisco on Monday. Ross Hostetter, Newport lumberman, will be chairman of the reception committee.

Announcement was also made that the Fourth Annual Builders' Exchange golf tournament will be held at the Santa Ana

BOY 4, DRIVEN ACROSS BAY

PORTSMOUTH, R. I., (UP)—Without oars, four-year-old Samuel Kallgren of Walpole, Mass., was driven across Mount Hope Bay in a rowboat during a heavy storm. Washed ashore safely, the youth told his frantic mother he "hung on to the seat and kept still."

SIDEBOTTOM TO HEAD LEGION MEMBER GROUP

State Commander Homer Chailaux of the American Legion paid signal tribute to Orange county Legionnaires in appointing members of state committees to serve during his term of office. One of the first appointments announced by the recently elected state commander was that of J. Fred Sidebottom, county sealer of weights and measures, as chairman of the important membership committee of the department of California.

Sidebottom is past commander of the Orange County Council of the Legion and has served the Anaheim post twice as commander. He has always been active in Legion and veterans' affairs.

Other county Legionnaires appointed to state committees by Chailaux were: Dr. F. E. Eare, Santa Ana, veterans welfare and relief; George Kellogg, Placentia, constitution and by-laws; Herb Gray, Huntington Beach, conservation and fire prevention; George Franzen, Orange, and Don Jones, Fullerton, distinguished guest committee; Glenn Young, Tustin, educational-ritualistic. James Heffron, Anaheim, was named to the board of directors of the Legion Publishing company, publishers of the California Legionnaire.

Young Birthday Lads Honored at Gay Circus Party

Circus days and their exciting joys were cleverly worked into birthday party plans when Mrs. Hugh Gerrard and Mrs. Hazel Campbell joined recently in presenting a party complimenting their sons, Jack Gerrard and Sam Campbell, upon their tenth anniversaries.

Circus games were played in the afternoon, and when finally the youngsters were called to the refreshment table arranged in the garden of the Gerrard home, 2009 Victoria drive, it was to enjoy a replica of a circus tent with colorful banners and streamers, given special place in the center of the table. Pink lemonade, popcorn, peanuts, sandwiches and animal crackers continued the circus theme.

Other decorative appointments were in yellow and green, and each child received a cunning clown figure, the clever handiwork of Mrs. Campbell.

Guests sharing this double anniversary event with the honored guests were Ruth Ann and Henry Sagerstrom, Betty Jean Christian, Marian and Betty Lou Ashland, Virginia Holcomb, Fern Hill, George and Bethel Haven, Dudley Goble, Mary Louise and Don Wassum, Vivian and Gerald Richardson, Lois Marlowe, Patricia Anne and Bobbie Beck, Don Rathbone, Rob Haven, Jack Nelson, Billy Smith and Douglas Carter.

Calumpit Auxiliary

Their first session in Knights of Pythias hall, their new meeting place, was held Tuesday evening by members of Calumpit auxiliary, with Mrs. Katherine Reagan, president, in charge. The charter was draped for a departed member, Mrs. Frances Dresser, one of the auxiliary's two mothers. Mrs. Julia Williams of Garden Grove is the other mother.

Plans were made for various affairs, including a picnic on September 16 at Irvine park, where Calumpit camp of Santa Ana, Warwick camp of Fullerton and Long Beach, with their auxiliaries, will be hosts to the Citrus Belt association at an all day affair. Coffee and orange juice will be furnished by the group. All Spanish war veterans are invited, and visiting veterans are given a special invitation to be present.

Announcement was made that the Sewing circle will hold its next meeting Wednesday, September 13, all day in the home of Mrs. Luella Randall, 2024 West Eighth street.

The camp and auxiliary will join in a monthly covered-dish dinner to be held September 26. On the committee will be Ruth Hess, Nellie Kenney, Phoebe Hyatt, Katherine Haskell and Emma Marsh.

A report was given of the drill team's work at the national convention held in Los Angeles, where the group acted as escort to national officers. Mrs. Elizabeth Moberly gave a general report of the convalescence which she attended as an official delegate.

During the business session, the auxiliary voted to subscribe to a magazine to be sent to a tubercular patient.

Ebell President Has Pleasant Memories Of Summer Trip

When Mrs. Charles V. Davis, 1615 North Broadway, takes up the duties of her office as president of Santa Ana Ebell society this month, she will do so with the memory of a delightful summer of travel which she and her daughter, Miss Barbara Jane Davis, concluded this week when they rejoined Mr. Davis in their home.

Departing two months ago by steamer, Mrs. Davis and her daughter had the delights of a trip through Panama canal. Pleasant friendships formed on the voyage were continued in New York City where the Santa Anas were taken on various sightseeing tours by fellow voyagers who placed time and automobiles at their service.

Washington, D.C. and Mount Vernon claimed attention of the Californians who continued from the east coast to Chicago, to spend two weeks with relatives and visit the exposition. Departing for St. Louis they visited with relatives of Mr. Davis, but made their stay there a quiet one because of the inexplicable epidemic of sleeping sickness.

The ensuing trip into Colorado was made by the scenic Denver and Rio Grande railroad, and Mrs. Davis and Miss Barbara Jane enjoyed short stays in Pueblo and other Colorado cities before coming to Salt Lake City where they attended one of the famous oratorical recitals in the temple, and saw the interesting sights before following the scenic Feather River route into California and homeward to Santa Ana.

The travelers had the good fortune to miss the successive heat waves sweeping the middle west and east, and encountered the pleasantest of weather conditions throughout the trip.

Wedding Details Told After Return of Honeymooners

The return from a San Diego honeymoon of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Johnson, served to give to all members of the immediate families, their first information concerning the quiet wedding of the young couple, an event of Sunday, September 3, in Greenville Methodist Episcopal church.

Only the closest relatives were assembled for the morning rites uniting Miss Belva Mary Brockett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Brockett of Route 5, Santa Ana, and E. L. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde A. Johnson, 1010 Bishop street.

The Rev. Edward A. Moody of Garden Grove read the service, for which the bride was attired in an all white costume of triple crepe, with hat, shoes and all dress accessories to match. She carried a large cluster of delicate pink roses.

Mrs. Earl Snyder, wearing a frock of bisque silk crepe, served as bridesmaid, and her sister, Miss Belva Mary Brockett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Brockett, assisted Mrs. Johnson as best man. The full ring ceremony was used, and after the young people exchanged their vows they lingered for only a few minutes before departing for San Diego. They visited Mr. Johnson's relatives in the southern city.

Mr. Johnson is a graduate of San Diego intermediate and high schools, and his bride had her high school training in this city. She is now connected with the commercial department of Santa Ana Junior college. The young people will be at home to their friends after September 15, at 204 West Highland avenue.

Guests at the morning wedding rites included Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Brockett, parents of the bride, and her grandfather, P. J. Matthews; Miss Thelma Brockett, Peter Emmett Brockett, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde A. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Snyder and the Rev. Edward A. Moody and their daughter and son, Ruth and Edward Moody.

For the luncheon which preceded the afternoon session, Misses L. R. Stierne, Milt Phillips, Mary Beard, Frank Harris and F. W. Loos were hostesses. At this hour, Miss Elizabeth Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Robinson of Tustin, was presented with a traveling case from the assembled group. She is leaving Friday for the Chicago Training school to fit herself for Christian work.

Song service was led by Mrs. C. G. Nalle, who also sang a solo, "If Your Heart Keeps Right." Devotions were given by Mrs. Earl Morris.

Annual Jam and Jelly Drive Comes This Month

Spring and summer hours which housewives of the community have spent conserving the season's luscious fruits are to benefit families and outsiders as well, for many of the freshly canned foods have been promised to Santa Ana American Legion Auxiliary members for their annual jam and jelly drive being conducted September 15 and 16.

Fruits obtained in the drive are to go to World war veterans at hospitals and soldiers' homes. A space in American Legion hall has been reserved for the contributions. Mrs. A. C. Eklund, general chairman of the drive, may be reached at telephone 5475. Her assistant, Mrs. David Jellis, may be telephoned at 5234V.

It is expected that the response to the year's jam and jelly drive will be greater than ever, since housewives on the whole have done much more canning than in previous years.

Bridge Rounds Enjoyed On Terrace Porch of Country Home

One of those delightful parties for which the Rev. Otto S. Russell home on Orangethorpe avenue near Fullerton, is noted, took place yesterday afternoon when Virginia Russell Weeks, daughter of the home, assembled a little group of friends for a bridge tea.

No flowers were needed to emphasize the attractiveness of this home in its surrounding orange groves, yet an occasional perfect rose or a cluster of pastel petal-like zinnias, fitting perfectly into their background, elicited the admiration of the guests. Mrs. Russell assisted her daughter in receiving her friends, and Miss Frances Black of Palos Verdes, was at the door also, as on many previous occasions.

Small tables, gay with Batik covers, were placed on the terrace porch at the rear of the home for the afternoon bridge tourney, each table bearing also a quaint Chinese bowl of sweetmeats. Mrs. Cassius Paul scored high in play, and received a Chinese ginger jar, a lovely bit of Oriental pottery.

Equally attractive was the set of half a dozen bowls exactly like those used on the tables, rewarding Miss Elizabeth Anderson for her second high rating.

Recalled to the drawing room on the second floor of the home, the guests found a tea table arranged with pompon zinnias and an array of loaves, cakes and other delicacies, who Mrs. Maurice Enderle pouring tea from a hand some silver urn, and Miss Frances Black to assist in serving.

Mrs. Weeks had as her guests, in addition to her cousin, Miss Black, Mrs. Adele Rundstrom of Anaheim, Miss Jean Goodwin, Miss Elizabeth Anderson, Miss Carolyn Houghton, Miss Frances Egge, Mrs. Maurice Enderle, Mrs. Horace J. Haverd, Mrs. Neal Stanley, Mrs. Cassius Paul, Mrs. Hugh Walker, Mrs. Frederick Elliott, Mrs. Edwin D. Holmes Jr., Mrs. Franklin G. West, Mrs. C. Harold Dale, Mrs. Boyd Munger and Mrs. Emmett Elliott.

Octette to Appear on Ebell's Opening Program

If Santa Ana Valley Ebell society's opening program on Monday afternoon in the clubhouse is indicative of the type of entertainment to follow throughout the year, then a most worthwhile season is in the offing for its members.

Beginning with a 12:30 o'clock luncheon whose speaker is to be Miss Anne Morgan of Hollywood, one of the best known translators of the motion picture industry, the meeting promises to reach its climax with the formal program to be presented by the well known Musical Arts Octette of this city.

Members no doubt will have a very special interest in this first business session, over which the new club president, Mrs. C. V. Davis will preside. Officers serving with her include Mrs. John Cloyer, Mrs. George Rayner and Mrs. Carl Klatt, vice presidents; Mrs. Hiram Currey, recording secretary; Mrs. Ralph Smedley, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Maxwell Burke, curator; Mrs. Hugh Lowe, Mrs. George Dunton, Mrs. Hugh Shields, Mrs. Harvey Gardner, Mrs. Frank F. Mead and Mrs. Harold Sgerstrom, board members.

Miss Morgan's subject for the after-luncheon talk will be "Behind the Locked Doors of Hollywood." As a writer of prominence whose literary contributions have appeared in various national magazines, Miss Morgan is expected to bring her listeners something of more than usual interest about the much discussed movie world.

Students of Holly Lash Visel will contribute to the luncheon program, with the Misses Mary Boyd and Billy Jane Ward singing selections from "The Prince of Pilsen." Miss Beatrice Granas will be their accompanist.

The business session and program will follow at 2 o'clock in the auditorium. The Musical Arts Octette, under the direction of Miss Ruth Armstrong, will give an entire performance with a written continuity arranged by Miss Edith Cornell. The scene is laid in a modern studio, with all the singers assembled as guests in this studio for afternoon tea. Each of the artists, including Sally Lee Scales, Irma Huffman May, Marie Holmes Bishop, Edith Cornell, June Burns, Bess Nalle, Cecile Fross Willets, Holly Lash Visel and Miss Armstrong, will present feature numbers during the course of the afternoon musicale.

Sally Lee Scales and Cecile Fross Willets are to be soloists, while Marie Holmes Bishop and Bess Nalle will appear in duet numbers. Irma Huffman May, Edith Cornell and Holly Lash Visel will enact an one-act play dealing with opposing viewpoints regarding marriage.

It seems especially appropriate that artists so well known in this community should be engaged to give the society's initial program for the year.

Notices of the meeting have been sent to Ebell members, and it is expected that a large group will be present. Luncheon reservations are to be made with Mrs. George Dunton and Mrs. Ralph Smedley. Members of the board are acting as sponsors for the affair.

Flying Needle Club Completes Layette

Flying Needle club members completed a layette and presented it to a local family at their meeting held Wednesday in the home of Mrs. F. W. Bergendorff, 1041 West Highland avenue.

A chicken dinner which the hostess served at noon came as a pleasant interval in the day otherwise devoted to sewing. Decorations were in pink, in observance of the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Bernard Snee. She received a pair of scissors from her club associates and a pewter compote from her "mystery sister," Mrs. Frank Brown received the hostess prize.

Mrs. Erroll Barnes invited the group to be her guests at a party next Wednesday at Corona del Mar, where she plans to spend the next two weeks.

Present Wednesday were Mrs. Bergendorff, Mrs. Erroll Barnes, Mrs. Adolph Erickson, Mrs. Bernard Snee, Mrs. Frank Brown, Mrs. William Kintz.

ANN MEREDITH'S MIXING BOWL

EAT AND GROW SLIM Luncheon

Waldorf Salad:
1 large apple, diced
2 walnut meats, chopped
1 celery heart, diced
Lettuce hearts
2 tbsps. mineral oil mayonnaise
1 square Ry-krisp with
1 tsp. butter
Clear tea, no sugar.
Calory total, 275.

Why not Waldorf salad for the whole family luncheon? Make it up in as many portions as needed, using the recipe as a guide. For the family use straight oil mayonnaise, and give them hot rolls, a quick coffee bread, or corn muffins in place of Ry-krisp, although if they will eat the Ry-krisp, they will be ahead in the end.

You know what the dentists say about the vicious faults of our modern soft foods! Ry-krisp certainly exercises their teeth and gums, as well as their patience.

The days will soon be getting nippy around the edges and then your family will want hot dishes which the boys so tellingly describe as "somethin' that'll stick to the ribs." Our old friend Tamale Pie fills the bill.

Tamale Pie
Fry—
1 pound hamburger
1 onion
1 large clove garlic, diced
2 tbsps. bacon fat
Add—
2 cans tomatoes (No. 2's)
1 tsp. chili powder
Salt, pepper and 1 can ripe olives.
Line dish with thick yellow corn meal mush, put in filling, and top of mush. Bake 30 minutes in medium oven.

Dutch Cake
2 cups raised dough
1 cup lard and butter, mixed
1 cup sweet milk
2 eggs
1 cup raisins
1 cup currants
1 tsp. nutmeg
1 tsp. baking soda
2 cups flour
2 cups sugar
Dissolve the soda in a little hot water and add to the dough with the milk, melted shortening. Beat and whip until the dough absorbs the other ingredients and thins. Alternate beaten eggs and sugar in mixing with the batter. Sift the nutmeg over the fruit and dredge well with part of the flour. Work in the flour and dredged fruit, and when smoothly mixed pack the dough into buttered bread tins (2 small), let stand until light, then bake in a slow oven.

Speaking of fat, how's your weight? If it is shooting up you need to cut down your fat intake and reduce the weight. If you want to do the trick easily, send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope and you may have a free copy of my SAFE AND SANE REDUCING DIET, easy to stay on, and marvelous on results.

CHEMIST SAID TO BE AMATEUR DURING TRIAL

that even the worried young defendant broke into a smile.

Weber brought into court the remains of the bonfire in which the state claimed it found the alleged murder weapon, a piece of iron pipe.

He had the ashes of the fire in a package and a collection of things ranging from a piece of hose to hairpins.

The witness rolled up his sleeves and reached in. As he withdrew each article he held it up for all to see.

In turn he showed a small spade, a piece of curtain rod, tin cans, a jar lid, a plate from an electric fixture, pieces of metal, small shells, the piece of hose, a broken cup, corn cobs, Chinese coins, a mass of copper wire, cigarette stubs and many other things. Each he placed on the table in front of him. The pile spilled over the edges of the table.

The state showed he sifted the ashes and obtained the variegated articles many days after the tragedy.

On the "south edge" of the fire Weber said he found a charred section of cloth, which looked like "a painter's drop-cloth." He gave it to E. O. Heinrich, the defense "star expert."

Weber was present when the Berkeley scientist examined the cloth.

"What tests did he apply," Attorney Rea asked.

"He took a piece of this drop-cloth and a piece of the cloth Dr. Proeschner had brought from the fire and we each tested both pieces of cloths and found them 'warp and woof identical,' Weber replied.

Dr. Frederick Proeschner, state pathological expert, testified the cloth may have been pieces of rag used to wipe up blood.

Weber next produced a piece of charred canvas from which he claimed the piece of burned cloth originated. He said he made a microscopic examination of the fragments and found them identical.

Bridges sought to blast the witness' observations on blood spots.

Next he attacked the fire, establishing that Weber would not vouch for any changes in the residue from May 30, the day of Mrs. Lamson's death, to June 24. Bridges said he was called to the Lamson death scene by Lamson's sister, Dr. Margaret Lamson.

Both state and defense attorneys next questioned him closely as to whether blood spots had been removed, either by scraping or washing, from the interior of the cottage.

Officers of the local chapter are: Paul Beckman, president; Bascom Rush, treasurer; Heiss, pledge master; Robert Edward, secretary; and Alex Lowe, historian.

Police News

An expensive set of golf clubs, valued at $170, was stolen from the car of Van S. Pomeroy, 718 South Broadway, while it was parked at 817 West Fourth street, he reported to police this week. There were 14 clubs and bags, each with his name inscribed on it.

Elmer Henry, 22, Laguna Beach, was arrested yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Merle Dean on a statutory offense. Bail was fixed at $3000 by Judge Kenneth Morrison.

INTERVENTION IN CUBA SEEMS NEARER TODAY

the condition of the landing field at Guantanamo naval base. The field sometimes is under water.

Marines Ready

A regiment of 1250 marines, knapsacks packed and all equipment ready, awaited sailing orders at the same base. Guns and grenades, nearly a million rounds of ammunition and 50,000 tons of daily rations were lined up to be taken aboard a transport at Hampton Roads.

Replies were expected today from some of the Latin-American countries which Mr. Roosevelt asked to encourage Cubans to foster a strong, effective government that would make intervention unnecessary.

Latin-American diplomats, however, saw difficulties in the way of a public appeal by their governments to the Cuban people, a subject discussed among the President and envoys of Argentina, Brazil, Chile and Mexico at the White House Wednesday night.

It was pointed out that should these governments appeal to Cuba to avoid the necessity of American intervention they would be recognizing, diplomatically:

1. The special arrangements between Cuba and the United States under the Platt amendment, and.

2. Admitting the necessity of intervention if disorder occurred in Cuba.

Some of the Latin-American countries long have abhorred the principle of American intervention. They are loath even to imply its rightfulness under any condition.

LEADERS APPEAL FOR SUPPORT IN HAVANA

HAVANA, Sept. 8.—(UP)—Cuba's revolutionary government appealed urgently to army officers and political leaders of all parties today to unite in its support. Only by united action could order be preserved and American intervention avoided, the government said.

Tired after three days of work with little sleep, the two university professors, lawyer, newspaper man and banker who comprise the executive committee government engaged in a series of conferences from early last night until 4:05 a. m. today.

Political leaders of half a dozen parties emerged from the palace non-committal.

A small group of army officers who waited to the last, half-heartedly authorized Sergio Carbo, newspaper man committeeman and acting secretary of war, to seek a compromise with the enlisted men who ousted their officers Monday night and put the committee in power.

Members of the government left the palace exhausted to get a few hours' rest before another meeting at noon. They expressed optimism that the army officers and politicians would rise as patriots to the emergency and support them. They did not seem to wish to consider the alternative—American intervention—that refusal of support would bring.

STATE PURCHASE OF TOLL BRIDGE URGED

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 8.—(UP)—Further attempts to persuade the state to purchase the Carquinez toll bridge will be made today before the California toll bridge authority.

Delegations from Bay district counties will present their arguments which, heretofore, have failed to convince state officials of the advisability of the acquisition.

Earl Lee Kelly, director of the department of public works, for example, has been opposed to the proposition. He holds public funds these days should be expended on projects which bring unemployment relief.

HEARING ON WATER
PROJECT IS HELD

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 8.—(UP)—Action of the state chamber of commerce on the controversial central valley water project plan was expected today after a prolonged hearing late yesterday by that organization's water committee.

Supporters of the vast enterprise are bidding for the approval of the state chamber—this to bolster their fight against the referendum against the project.

The huge undertaking would provide 25,000 jobs for a four-year period, the committee was told. It would relieve water shortage in the San Joaquin valley, eliminate the saline water condition in the Delta region, provide flood control and improve Sacramento river navigation.

STATE FAIR ENTERS ITS HOME STRETCH

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 8.—(UP)—California's state fair entered the home stretch today after a climatic Thursday featured by the unexpected visit of former president Herbert Hoover and Mrs. Hoover.

Miners and state supervisors occupied the spotlight. Each group will be honored at special luncheons this noon.

The former president spent three hours at the state fair grounds, meeting friends and participating in the "Governor's Day" program. Governor Rolph's illness prevented his presence.

Mr. Hoover awarded 18 future farmers of America, an organization of young farm boys, golden keys. Then he walked through the main exhibit building and was whisked by motor through the livestock stables.

Court Notes

Oliver Hibdon, 305 West Third street, charged with reckless driving by county officers and wanted for traffic violations in Riverside county, appeared before Judge Kenneth Morrison yesterday and was sentenced to pay $150 or serve one day in the county jail for each $2 of his fine, but not to exceed 30 days.

BURMAH WHITE CHANGES MIND ABOUT TALKING

her parents have indicated they will stick by her.

Joseph Adams, her father, has announced that Donald McKay, former deputy prosecutor has been retained to defend the girl.

At one time yesterday the girl indicated that she would tell all she knew about the career of crime she and her husband are alleged to have engaged in. A short time later she abruptly informed her questioners: "You'll have to prove me guilty—I'll never confess anything."

While police are endeavoring to prove Burmah White a hardened criminal and narcotic addict former acquaintances in Santa Ana are recalling the girl and her change from a studious school child to a girl who "went places and did things."

One acquaintance who had attended school in Santa Ana with Burmah Adams said that in junior high school Burmah was known as a quiet girl and a student.

When Burmah was about 14 years old, according to the information received today, she was involved in an accident on a bicycle. Her skull was fractured and from the time of her apparent recovery Burmah Adams was a different girl it is said.

From a quiet, studious girl Burmah was transformed to a "stepper," it was said. Quitting high school she worked for a time behind the fountain in drug stores. Later she attended "beauty school" and upon graduation there was employed in a beauty parlor. It was while working there that she first changed the color of her hair.

From then on she alternated between her natural dark hair through the various shades of blonde.

When she first acquired the drug habit is unknown. That she is a drug addict is the claim of Capt. Eddie Chitwood of the Los Angeles police narcotic squad. Her addiction to narcotics, he said, included an addiction to cocaine, which, he said, was clearly indicated by her physical condition.

MARY CARLTON DIES SUDDENLY AT HER HOME

Arrangements have been completed for funeral services tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock in Smith and Tutill chapel, for Mrs. Mary L. Carlton, 73, whose death came unexpectedly yesterday at her home, 507 East First street, after only a few hours' illness.

Mrs. Carlton, who was born in Perryville, Tenn., had been a resident of Santa Ana since 1925, coming here from Memphis, Tenn., with her daughters, Mrs. Troy Smith and Mrs. Helen Matthews. She is survived by one son also, E. N. Carlton, of Shreveport, La. She had been a faithful member of Spurgeon M. E. church South, and her pastor, the Rev. Cecil M. Akers, will conduct the services tomorrow morning, while special music will include a solo by James Nuckolls, church soloist. Burial will be made in Fairhaven cemetery.

The sudden passing of Mrs. Carlton was a shock to her family and friends, for she had seemed in her usual health yesterday morning. The illness which resulted in her death, came unexpectedly about 8 o'clock, and she soon lost consciousness, remaining in a coma until death released her from any suffering.

Los Angeles

He did not know that his daughter had married an ex-convict who had been transferred from San Quentin to Folsom because he was unruly. He did not know that the transfer was caused by a fight among prisoners in which White lost an eye. White, he said, told them that he lost his eye in an automobile accident.

Adams said that White had the manners of a gentleman and that he felt no hesitancy in trusting his daughter to his care. It was revealed that Burmah met White just two months ago, about two months after his release from prison on parole to his sister, Mrs. Violet Dillon.

Burmah told her family of White's position in a brokerage office and of his transfer to take care of his firm's San Francisco office. White she was telling this tale to her family, police charge, she was assisting her fiancé in a series of crimes that terrorized the entire Los Angeles area.

Mrs. Kearns sets forth she obtained a judgment in New York for alimony arrears of $2270. As no part of this judgment had been paid she asks similar judgment here.

Murder At Bridge

by ANNE AUSTIN author of "THE BLACK PIGEON" and "MURDER BACKSTAGE"

Juanita Selim is murdered at a bridge. Suspicion rests on nearly all of her guests. Lydia, her maid, says she loved Nita and shows special interest in her. A broken bulb, which indicates to Dundee that the murderer bumped into it while fleeing toward the back hall, Tracy Miles, one of the guests, returns and offers to take Lydia home with him if she may, and Dundee tells her of this, and reads her Nita's will, leaving everything to Lydia, which shows Nita's fear of murder and also gives a new motive for the crime to Lydia. Nita knows nothing of the $10,000 Nita deposited since she came to Hamilton.

In a note to Lydia, Nita tells her to dress for cremation in a velvet dress, 12 or 13 years old, which Dundee suspects is a wedding dress. He learns from Lydia that Nita went out with Ralph Hammond, in love with her and missing from the party, Thursday night, and Friday night, the night she made the will, saw Dexter Sprague, who left her upset. Dundee tells Miles that Lydia accepts the offer and asks him if he saw Ralph at Nita's house when he called that morning, and what was his attitude.

NOW GO ON WITH "THE STORY"

CHAPTER XXIII

"Unusual?" Miles repeated, frowning. "He was a little short with me because he was busy, and I suspect, a little jealous because I'd come calling on Nita." He broke off abruptly, in obvious distress. "Look here, Dundee! I didn't mean to say that, but I suppose you'll find out sooner or later—Well, the fact is, the whole crowd knows Ralph Hammond was absolutely mad about Nita Selim. Wanted to marry her, and made no secret of it, though we all thought or hoped it would be little Penny Crain. He's been devoted to Penny for years, and since Roger Crain made a mess of things and skipped out, leaving Penny and her poor mother high and dry, we've all done our best to throw Penny and Ralph together. But since Nita came to town—

"Was Nita in love with Ralph?" Dundee cut in, rather curtly, for he had a curious distaste for hearing Penny Crain discussed in this manner.

"Sometimes we were sure she was," Miles answered. "She flirted with all of us men—had a way with her of making every man she talk-

From behind the black veil which draped her ugly black hat and hid her scarred face, Lydia answered in the dull, harsh voice that was characteristic of her: "Thank you, sir. I'll do my best."

She made no protest when Dundee, with a word of embarrassed apology, went rapidly through the heavy suitcase she had brought up from the basement with her. And when he had finished his fruitless search, she knelt and silently smoothed the coarse, utilitarian garments he had discarded.

Five minutes later Dundee was alone in the house where murder had been committed under such strange and baffling circumstances that afternoon. He was not nervous, but again he made a tour of inspection of the first floor and basement, looking into closets, testing windows to make sure they were all locked. Everywhere there were evidences of the thoroughness of the police detectives who had searched for the weapon with which Nita Selim had been murdered. In the basement, as he had subconsciously noted on his headlong dash to question Lydia Carr, the furnace doors swung open, and the lids of the laundry tubs had been left propped up, after the unavailing search.

He plodded wearily up the basement stairs and on into the kitchen. Perhaps the ice box had something to eat in it—the fruit intended for Nita's and Lydia's Sunday breakfast. Those caviar and anchovy sandwiches had certainly not stuck with him long....

He was making his way toward the electric refrigerator when he stopped as suddenly as if he had been shot.

The kitchen door, which he had taken special pains to assure himself was locked, when he had made the rounds immediately after the departure of Captain Strawn and his men, was standing slightly ajar!

Someone had entered this house!

Dundee stared blankly at the door, which was equipped with a modern lock. Someone with a key.... But why had the door been left ajar? To make escape easier?

With the toe of his shoe Dundee pushed the door to, heard the click of the lock, then, all thought of food routed from his mind, made a quick but almost silent dash into the dining room to secure one of the pair of tall wax tapers, which, in their silver candlesticks, served as ornaments for the sideboard.

If the intruder was still in the house he could be nowhere but in that unfinished half of the gabled top story. The nearer stairs were those in the back hall, and Dundee took them two at a time, regardless of the noise. Who had preceded him stealthily?.... By the aid of his lighted candle he discovered an electric switch at the head of the stairs, flicked it on, and found himself in a wide hall, one wall of which was finished with buff-tinted plaster and three doors, the other of rough boards with but a single door.

With his candle held high, so that its light should not blind him, and well aware that it made him a perfect target, Dundee opened the unpainted door and found himself in the dark, mysterious room that had served Nita Selim and the Crains before her as a storeroom. From the ceiling dangled a green cord ending in a cheap, clear-glass bulb. But its light was sufficient to penetrate even the farthest low nooks made by the three gables. He blew out his candle and dropped it as useless now.

A quick tour convinced him that nothing human was concealed behind one of Nita Selim's empty wardrobe trunks, or behind one of the several pieces of heavy old furniture, undoubtedly left behind by the dispossessed Crain family. Big footprints on the thick dust which coated the floor showed him that he was being no more thorough than Captain Strawn's brace of plainclothes detectives had been much earlier that evening. Two pairs of giant footprints....

With an exclamation he discovered a smaller, narrow pair of prints, and followed their winding trail all around and across the attic. And then he remembered....

Ralph Hammond's footprints, of course, made that morning as he went about his legitimate business of measuring and estimating for the job of turning the storeroom into bedrooms and bathrooms.

Dundee had not realized that he was frightened until he was in the hall again, facing one of the three doors in the buff-tinted plastered wall. With surprise, and some amusement, he became aware that his hands were trembling, and that his knees had a curious tendency to buckle.

The fact that the door directly in front of him was open about two inches served, for some odd reason, to steady his nerves. Pushing the door wide open with his foot—for he never forgot the possibility of incriminating fingerprints which might easily be obliterated—he discovered a light switch near the door frame.

The instant illumination from a ceiling cluster revealed a large bedroom, and, less clearly, another and smaller room beyond it, facing as the house faced—toward the south. Knees and hands steady again, he investigated the finished portion of the gabled story swiftly. A charming layout, he once enjoyed this delightful little sitting room, with its tiny balcony built out upon the sloping roof? And it gave him pleasure to think that this big, well-furnished but not fussy feminine bedroom had once been here, as well as the small but perfect bathroom whose high narrow window overlooked the back garden. The closets, dresser drawers and highboy, however, of any trace of her occupancy or that of any other.

With these rooms going to waste, why—she suddenly asked herself—had Nita Selim coaxed Judge Marshall to have the unfinished half of the gabled attic turned into bedrooms and baths? Why couldn't Lydia have slept up here, if Nita thought so much of her "faithful and beloved maid"?

But even as he asked himself the question Dundee realized that the answer to it had been struggling to attract his attention.

These rooms had not been wasted! Someone had been occupying them as late as last night! Weaving swiftly through the three rooms, like a bloodhound on the scent, Dundee collected the few but sufficient proofs to back up his intuitive conviction. A copy of The Hamilton Evening Sun, dated Friday, May 22, left in an armchair in the sitting room. All windows raised about six inches from the bottom, so that the night breeze stirred the hand-blocked linen drapes. And, clinging to these drapes, the faint but unmistakable odor of cigaret smoke. Finally, with a low cry of triumph, Bonnie Dundee flung back the hand-blocked linen spread which covered the three-quarter sized bed and discovered that the sheets and pillow cases, though clean, had, beyond the shadow of a doubt, been slept upon.

Bending so that his nose almost touched a pillow case he sniffed. Pomade!.... Who was the man who had slept in this bed last night?

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KING

The greased pig tried its best to toss the diver, and 'twas at a loss to understand just how the old man hung on good and tight. "You can't lose me," the diver cried. "I told the Tiniest I would ride, and that's just what I'm doing. Gee, I'll bet we're quite a sight."

"I'll say you are," said Scouty. "I have laughed so much that I could cry. Each time you bounce up high it seems that you are going to flop."

"I'll bet you'll shortly get tired out, and then you'll fall, without a doubt. That pig has lots of strength. How are you going to make it stop?"

"Well, I don't know," the diver said. "Perhaps I will land on my head before this ride is over. Try to catch me, if I spill."

"That's just what we would like to do, but, shucks, we can't keep up with you," said Copy. "All that we can do is watch and get a thrill."

Toward a fence the pig then ran. "Oh, goodbye to the diver man," cried Windy. And the lad was right. The pig pulled off a trick. It crashed the fence with one big jump. The diver landed with a thump upon the ground, and then he cried, "Say, that was pretty slick!"

"Well, now that that is over, I am going to see if I can buy a hot-dog," shouted Duncy. "I'm as hungry as can be."

He shortly spied a hot-dog tent and that is where he promptly went. Then to the sandwich man he cried, "One big hot-dog for me!"

He started eating, with a grin, just as some puppy dogs ran in. They smelled the tasty sandwich and their barking was a fright. "My, my," said Duncy. "Take your time. Upon me you don't need to climb. If you will just behave yourselves, I'll give you all a bit."

THE WEEKLY PANTRY SHELF

LISTS UNUSUAL WAFFLE COMBINATIONS, RECIPES

The next time you sit down to eat the day's meals and have an attack of that tired-of-the-same-old-thing feeling, take a look around at equipment and utensils. Of course you know what's there, but look at things anyway and with some imagination, as if you have never seen them before. You will get a lot of ideas, perhaps more than you can use right away. We know, because we tried this and took hardly more than a peep into the cupboard and there was the waffle iron. At once, we knew that we did not use that waffle iron nearly as much as we might.

Perhaps plain waffles did not appeal to you as something new or different. In that case, let's add something to the batter or bake something in the iron that is not a waffle batter at all. We shall start with a labor saving luncheon or supper menu.

Bran Corn Meal
with Bacon
Butter Syrup (if desired)
Quartered Tomatoes
French Dressing
Hot or Iced Beverage

There is a real secret about the waffle recipe. It is just a corn bread mixture. You can use almost any corn bread recipe you like, provided it is a rather thin batter. Add a little milk or water to thin if necessary. This recipe was pronounced just right by all who tried it. We liked it especially because it is almost a meal in itself. Both the bacon and bran add flavor and nourishment. No other meat is needed and the bran supplies sufficient fiber to balance the meal in this respect.

The best part for the cook is that these waffles are fun to make and there are very few dishes to wash afterwards.

BRAN CORN MEAL WAFFLES

WITH BACON
2 eggs (beaten slightly)
1/4 cup sugar
1 cup corn meal
1 cup milk
1/4 cup flour
1/4 tsp. salt
2 tps. baking powder
4 slices bacon (diced).

Combine eggs and sugar thoroughly; add bran, corn meal and and add to first mixture. Pre-heat waffle iron. Sprinkle a tablespoon of diced bacon on the hot iron and fry until partially cooked. Pour on batter. Close iron and bake until nicely browned.

Note: Grease the top of the waffle iron before baking the first waffle. After that no greasing will be needed.

Yield: 6 waffles.

Other mixtures suitable for waffles are cake batters that are not too rich, such as ginger, spice, chocolate or plain butter cakes. These waffles are delicious as desserts or for tea and party refreshments. Sprinkle with powdered sugar or cinnamon and sugar. Cookies, too, can be baked in the waffle iron. Serve them hot right from the iron for a real treat.

CORN FLAKE WAFFLE

COOKIES
1/4 cup shortening
1/4 cup sugar
1 egg (well beaten)
1-3 cup milk
1 cup flour
1 tsp. baking powder
1/4 tsp. salt
1/2 cup shredded cocoanut
1 cup corn flakes.

Cream shortening and add sugar gradually. Add eggs and mix well. Stir in sifted dry ingredients alternately with milk and add cocoanut and corn flakes. Drop by spoonfuls on hot waffle iron and bake until golden brown.

Yield: 15 cookies, 2 1/4 inches in diameter.

A few suggestions for making "plain" waffles different and also fancy are:

Add to your favorite waffle batter vegetables, such as corn, grated raw carrots or sweet potatoes; berries, shredded pineapple, chopped cherries, dates, figs, citron; minced ham, cooked sausage or bacon; grated cheese; chopped nuts; crisp cereals or bran.

Make Texas waffles by substituting brown for white sugar and placing over the batter a few whole pecan meats just before closing the iron.

Sprinkle the batter with shredded cocoanut to make toasted cocoanut waffles.

Make sandwich waffles by spreading on iron a thin layer of batter, place on each quarter a thin slice of cheese or crisply fried bacon, and cover with batter. Occasionally serve waffles instead of fritters with meat, instead of toast under creamed foods or poached eggs, instead of cake for shortcakes or ice cream sandwiches. And quite often serve waffles as waffles and we know the family will love them.

LA HABRA

Mrs. Phillips and her mother, Mrs. Roxie Balcom, expect to accompany the visitors on a trip to San Diego this week.

LABORATORY TESTS CHECK EFFICACY OF KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN

Show Why This Delicious Cereal Overcomes Common Constipation

There are scientific reasons for the success of ALL-BRAN in preventing and relieving common constipation. Laboratory investigations show that it supplies "bulk" to exercise the intestines; and vitamin B to promote appetite, and help tone the intestinal tract.

These two important food-elements aid regular habits, and help do away with the headaches, loss of appetite and energy, so often the result of constipation.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is mild in action—much like that of lettuce. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes.

Isn't this pleasant "cereal way" far more healthful than using pills and drugs—so often habit-forming! Just eat two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's daily—enough for most types of constipation. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Besides, ALL-BRAN brings your body twice as much blood-building iron as an equal amount by weight of beef liver.

Special cooking processes make ALL-BRAN finer, softer, more palatable. Equally tasty as a cereal, or used in cooking. Recipes on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

ANAHEIM TAKES COUPLE GUESTS IN HUGE DROP OF GOLD AT IN FOUR YEARS DINNER PARTY

ANAHEIM, Sept. 8.—A comparative study on the city government's financial status since 1929 showing a 25 per cent reduction in the tax rate in that period, was given yesterday noon by Councilman Leon Sheridan at a meeting of the chamber of commerce board of directors.

The reduction of the assessed valuation from peak values is approximately 12 per cent while the actual reduction of tax receipts for the past four years amounted to 37 per cent. The increase in the general fund balance is $48,728.53.

Councilman Sheridan pointed out that the tax rate four years ago was $125 on $100 and last year was 95. The proposed tax rate for 1933-34 is five cents lower.

The assessed valuation for taxation has decreased from $11,502,000 in 1929 to $10,276,170 in 1933-34. For the former period receipts from taxes totaled $145,381.55 while this year it is $85,078.92. The cash balance in the general fund on April 30, 1930, was $78,883.61 and on the same date in 1933 was $128,724.19.

The cash balance for the year just concluded showed an increase of $15,137.11 while over a period of the last three years the cash balance increased $49,735.53.

The board of directors received instructions from the National Recovery Act administration to appoint a committee to comprise a local mediation board. The board will investigate all cases where it is reported that merchants are not living up to terms of the agreements, further explain the provisions and attempt to point out how employers can abide by the regulations without "ruining" themselves.

The board will probably not be appointed by George W. Reid, secretary of the chamber of commerce until he returns from his vacation in two weeks' time.

Dr. Walter H. Bigham reported on the recent mass meeting of property owners on North Los Angeles street and declared that since that time a deed of property has been secured from the Christian Science church towards the widening of the highway. He was con-

REGISTRATION IS STARTED AT ANAHEIM HIGH

ANAHEIM, Sept. 8.—Registration of students at the Anaheim Union High school continued today with the registering of freshmen and sophomore students. Yesterday 469 junior and senior students were registered according to figures compiled today in the office.

With school formally opening on Monday morning at 8 o'clock, J. A. Claves, principal, announced that the buses will run on their regular routes with a possible change of schedule later when it is determined where the heaviest traffic will be.

While registration has formerly covered a period of four days this year it is being done in two.

At the first faculty meeting of the year, held yesterday morning, all teachers reported for work. Miss A. Helene Ehlers was elected president of the Faculty club and Lloyd Ross, treasurer.

A teacher's contract was awarded Miss Marion Utter of Anaheim who last year did substitute work. She will teach Latin.

Flower Mission Holds Gathering

ANAHEIM, Sept. 8.—Combining their first business meeting since the vacation beginning in June, with a garden party, members of the Flower Mission of the First Presbyterian church, met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William Webb of 539 West Broadway.

Assistant hostesses were Mrs. Floyd McCracken, Mrs. J. E. Roddin and Mrs. C. H. Powell. The Rev. Thomas H. Walker, pastor of the church, was introduced by Mrs. Leo Fris, program chairman. He gave an inspirational address on the work and service of the organization and urged the members to even greater efforts.

Following the business meeting refreshments were served at the small tables erected beneath gayly striped umbrellas.

Anaheim Police Notes

ANAHEIM, Sept. 8.—James Henry Updyke of Placentia paid a $10 fine yesterday morning on a charge of intoxication. He was arrested Sunday.

Chicago Bd. of Trade

CHICAGO, Sept. 8.—(UP)—Speculative sentiment underwent a swift change on the Board of Trade today and wheat prices snapped up from an early break to 2 cents to close with fractional gains.

With the southwest reporting a liberal four business and pit professionals looking for some constructive news out of Washington some time next week, wheat was taken up rapidly whenever offered.

Chicago locals and commission houses were heavy buyers and uncovered a solid out condition. A letter to the stock market helped the rise, as did continued strength in cash premiums in the southwest.

Corn and oats firmed up. At the close wheat was 1/4 to 1/2 cent higher, corn was unchanged up 1/4 cent and oats were 3/4 to 1/2 cent higher.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 8, 1939

DR. CHARLES H. PARKHURST

Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst, at the age of 91, has just passed away. The announcement of Dr. Parkhurst's death will probably come to the older generation in a stirring manner, as most have undoubtedly thought he had passed away years ago. It is almost impossible to believe that he has continued his life without, in these late years, having his utterances reach the public press.

Dr. Parkhurst was one of the genuine, outstanding reformers 40 years ago. He was pastor of the Madison Square Presbyterian Church of New York for 38 years. He became morally certain, without legal evidence of conditions which existed, and denounced them from his pulpit, and was humiliated by being brought before the grand jury unable to present legal proofs of which he had spoken. This stirred his soul to its very depths, and he proceeded to gather the legal evidence concerning a condition which he knew existed. He, himself, gathered much of the evidence.

He had scores of individuals who aided him in the undertaking, and when later he sprung the facts, he forced a committee of investigation. He drove the leaders of Tammany Hall from office; he overturned the government of New York City, and became the outstanding force for clean government and opposition to corruption of all kinds, that there was in this country.

Dr. Parkhurst's first experience caused him to fortify himself always with the facts before he spoke, so that later the truth of his statements was never seriously questioned. Primarily his force and power was due to his unquestioned unselfishness and devotion. Sometimes people who know conditions, and note how, side by side with corruption and crookedness and political trickery and bribery, churches go on their quiet way, with their moral and spiritual leadership seemingly unacquainted with conditions, come to the conclusion that "goodness is dumb"; that the world is going to the "damnation bow-wow," primarily because the alleged moral and spiritual leaders either are easily fooled, or do not know what is going on.

But occasionally a man like Dr. Parkhurst, like an ancient and terrible prophet, with the character of a saint, and the indignation of an avenging angel, rises in his place of power and for a period leads in the cleansing of the "Augean stables." There have been many smaller, abridged, "Doctor Parkhursts," and many imitators, but he is the outstanding man of his type in the last 50 years.

When Dr. Parkhurst swayed the city from his Madison Square Presbyterian pulpit, there was a wholesome respect for the virility of religion, even in Greater New York. His death recalls many of these things to memory. The review of his life should be an inspiration and challenge to many of the men who are in similar places of leadership, with even greater need before them than there was before Dr. Parkhurst 35 years ago.

MR. MORGENTHAU'S FEARS

Before the war, Henry Morgenthau, sr., was our ambassador to Turkey. He is the father of the Governor of the National Farm Credits administration, Henry Morgenthau, jr., who has been visiting in Southern California recently. There he had an opportunity to come into personal contact with the leading diplomats of the world. From his conversations with the German ambassador at that time, and the comments, as well as the gossip circulating about, he felt that war in Europe was imminent. His fears were justified by subsequent events.

In an address given in Bar Harbor, Maine, recently, shortly after he returned from the London Economic Conference, he noted a number of storm clouds gathering in Europe. These storm clouds, he said, were heading toward a clash, and the result would be one of the most disastrous wars of history.

Mr. Morgenthau is not speaking without his facts. There are hatreds and rivalries in Europe. The Great War did not establish the peace of Europe. It left open sores already existing, and opened up a whole lot of new sores—the Polish corridor, the disarmament of Germany, the wrenching of peoples from their natural kindred and joining them with those of other nationalities,—such as the Germans in Czechoslovakia, the Hungarians and the Bulgarians in Yugoslavia and Roumania, and some others equally serious on the borders of the Soviet Republic. Germany's present Fascist policies are threatening. Austrian instability is a menace in Southeastern Europe. The Russian experiment has its omens.

But recognizing all this, Mr. Morgenthau overlooks the fact that the people are still terribly conscious of the wreckage of the last war. With colossal debts hanging like a millstone about their necks; with economic chaos and depression everywhere; with sharp divisions among the people of the same nationality everywhere,—rulers and statesmen will be rather slow to precipitate a war while the last one is still so fresh in mind. The complete revolution in Russia and Turkey, the partial revolution in Germany which toppled over every throne in the German Empire, and the overthrow of the Hapsburgs in Spain, may serve as a warning of what is likely to happen in case of another war.

A war is always hard on the common people. But it often brings destruction to those at the top. Neither group will rush into a war without counting the cost. The seeds of war are planted in many nations. They may sprout sometime in the future. But in the light of past history, a war in this generation like the last war is almost unthinkable. So, we are not unduly troubled about Mr. Morgenthau's gloomy forebodings.

MORE FACTS ABOUT LINCOLN

We shall never cease to have students of Lincoln searching for undiscovered facts. No American has been the subject of such detailed study as has been the Great Emancipator. Every little detail of his life has been explored, and its content proclaimed to the world.

Dr. Louis A. Warren, director of the Lincoln National Life Foundation, has made a complete record of the dwelling places of Lincoln during his life time, and the length of time lived in each. He finds that Lincoln moved sixteen times from the time he was born in Hodgenville, Kentucky, until he occupied the White House from 1861 to 1865. Seven years he lived in Kentucky; fourteen years in Indiana; seven years in rural Illinois; twenty-one years in Springfield, Illinois; and seven years in Washington. One might almost say of Lincoln that he spent a great part of his life in a moving van.

Doubtless there was no President of the United States who changed his abode so frequently, lived in such varied sections of the country, and occupied so many different houses. Most of our presidents have been quite provincial. The two Roosevelts spent most of their lives in New York. Coolidge confined his whole life, including Washington, to three places. Harding spent his entire life in Ohio; as did Hayes and McKinley. Wilson and Hoover, the first a college professor, and the second a mining engineer,—a class who are apt to make many changes of abode,—never moved about as much as Lincoln.

These new facts about Lincoln have no particular significance, except as they may illustrate how long Lincoln was in getting a foothold in life, and how little of promise there was in all his wanderings that he would one time become the most typical and eminent American of all our great leaders. In all these changes, opportunity was given him to see every conceivable phase of American life and to understand by immediate personal contact every group of our varied population. Some of those rare human qualities he possessed may reasonably be accounted for because of these widely scattered and varied contacts.

THE SECRET OF GANDHI'S POWER

In Gandhi the British government has found a tartar. When Gandhi was incarcerated by the government sometime ago, and he declared that he was going on a hunger strike, we called attention to the fact that it put the government in a position where it could not keep him in jail. And sure enough, before he had been "hungry" but a few days, the government let him out and let him out unconditionally.

If a man tried to do that in this country, they might forcibly feed him, or they might let him die. But certainly he would not win his cause that way.

But the Indian mind is different. They believe that Gandhi is a saint, and sure enough, if he isn't, we don't know what he is. And being a saint, and working on behalf of justice and for the poor and the "untouchables" of India, the government cannot let him die on its hands.

What can you do with a man like Gandhi? He counts his life of no value, compared with the cause in which he has enlisted. This week, emaciated and poor, this 90 pounds of a man has placed himself against the might and majesty of a great empire, and is winning out by "soul force."

Gandhi is winning because he is using weapons that the British government doesn't understand. Or if it does understand them, it knows no way with which to combat them. It has not been fighting its own battles with those weapons during the years. It is strange indeed that peoples, nations, governments and officials cannot learn from Gandhi's action, or it may be that everybody has learned, but that few, if any, are capable of using the weapon that he uses, because instead of being willing to lose one's life, we are all interested in saving it.

Hurricanes

Texas is visited by a hurricane which roared in from the Gulf. The Atlantic seaboard from the Carolinas through the Chesapeake Bay region to New England had similar experience a week ago. It is the season, in a part of the country for hurricanes and for winds of near-hurricane velocity.

A scientist who contributes to his knowledge of storms of the kind to the National Geographic Society, writes that hurricanes are not native of the mid-Atlantic states, but of a region somewhere in the Atlantic between Florida and Africa. Each year, between July and October, about ten of these great winds sweep westward, then northward, and finally back northeastward, their paths forming a parabolic curve. California, outside of this curve, is without knowledge and experience of what it means.

Hurricanes are the strongest of the horizontal winds, although they do not drive straight ahead. They are swirls of the cyclone type. But, while the center of a hurricane moves along at a slow speed, it sucks air toward a great central vortex at terrific speeds, up to 100 or more miles per hour, covering a considerable area and moving long distances.

A study of hurricanes since 1887, made by the U. S. Weather Bureau, reveals that there are certain "hurricane-growing months" just as there are "corn-growing months." The real hurricane season starts in August, reaches its peak in September, and practically ends in October. Even during the hurricane season the greatest percentage falls to reach the Gulf or Atlantic coasts.

Since 1898 the weather reporting stations established by the U. S. Weather Bureau in the West Indies have sent out warnings of tropical disturbances, saving perhaps thousands of lives and millions of dollars property damage by warning ship captains, airplane pilots, automobile owners, railroads, and telephone and telegraph companies.

Those Pajama Poses Look Hopeful

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

THE PROPHET OF EVIL

The leaves are still upon the trees—
As many as in June;
Across the road the bumblebees
Drone forth the same old tune,
But somewhere in the woodland hid,
Beyond the winding lane,
The pessimistic katydid
Chants: "Summer's on the wane!"

I know as well as he can know
That Winter's on his way,
And soon the skies, now all aglow,
Will turn to leaden gray.
I know the fields will soon be brown
Where once the fireweed stood,
And chilling winds will whistle down
The pathway through the wood.

But I don't cry these tidings out:
More charity I use;
What profits any one to shout
Unprofitable news?
Why must this harbinger of woe
Stand voicing, keen and shrill,
While still the autumn flowers blow,
His prophecy of ill?

We yet have weeks and weeks of sun
And pleasant leafy shade
Small children still may romp and run
Along the quiet glade;
The world looks brave and bright and young,
Instead of brown and sere;
Why can't this miscreant hold his tongue
Until the snow is here?

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

BETWEEN THE NRA LINES

Some of the most important implications of the national recovery program must be found between the lines of the emergency acts upon which the program rests.

The Roosevelt cure for the depression grows naturally out of the Roosevelt conception of the cause of the depression.

Mr. Roosevelt and his colleagues belong definitely to the school that believes the depression was caused by over-production and too much competition.

For all the fears of inflation that some moves from Washington have stimulated, the Roosevelt regime is clearly not committed to the theory that the depression was caused by purely monetary factors.

Believing as it does that the depression was caused by over-production and too much competition, the Roosevelt administration advances a program that seeks to do two things. They are:

(1) To cut down the production of the existing industrial and agricultural plant of the nation.

(2) To discourage, if not directly to curb, fresh investment in new productive facilities.

These two policies directly underlie the three major objectives of the Roosevelt program:

(1) To make the existing enterprises of business, industry and agriculture more profitable.

(2) To spread buying power as rapidly as possible among the consuming masses through higher wages and shorter hours and wider employment.

(3) To spend more and more public money on non-productive enterprises, by which I mean enterprises that will not be productive in the sense of competing in output of goods with the established concerns.

As we look back over earlier periods of recovery from depression, one or both of the following factors has or have been present:

(1) The general price level has been lifted, as a result of inflation, following which came a general business revival.

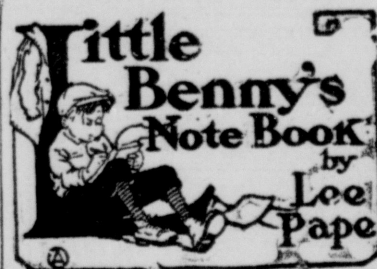

(2) The rush of investment into new agencies of production.

The Roosevelt program, to date at any rate, turns thumbs down on both of these factors that have appeared in earlier processes of economic recovery and relief, as I have said, on jacking up the profit-making prospects of existing enterprises, spreading buying power, and priming the pump with large public expenditures on non-productive enterprises.

My hat is off to the far-sighted determination of the Roosevelt regime to spread buying power and to inject an element of rationalism into the process of industrial expansion which, in established fields, should keep within the limits of actual market possibilities, but, as in all attempts to plan national development from the center, some basic questions are involved which we must be thinking about.

To one of these questions I shall turn tomorrow.

THE BABY'S RIGHTS

"Mother, please call Jane back. She wants to come with me."
"Why don't you take her?"
"I can't take her. I am going to the club meeting, you know."
"Well, I can't see that your club meeting is so important that your little sister can't go to it with you. She doesn't do any harm. Take her along. She doesn't like to be left behind."

"But I can't take her to the meeting. The girls won't like it and I don't like it either. I don't see why I have to have her tagging along after me. I'm in a hurry and I have to hold her hand. I can't go anywhere or do anything that I want to do if she is along. I have to take care of her."

"Well, suppose you do? She is your little sister. You ought to be glad to take care of her."
"I am sometimes but not all the time. If I have to take her I will stay home."

"All right. If that's the way you feel about it, stay home. I don't see any good that your clubs do. You are as selfish as you can be. Never mind Jane. You'll be a big girl too, one of these days. Then you won't need anybody to hold your hand."

That is not fair. A five year old child cannot associate to any great extent with children over 10. The span of experience and consequent interest is too great to be bridges. The older child has to make an effort to please the younger one and the younger one is wearied and bored very soon. It does neither child any good.

It is true that an older sister or brother owes the younger ones some attention and care. They ought to feel some responsibility for them and the younger ones should look up to them for guidance and help. But the older ones must have their rights respected. The younger children are not to have control of the older ones on the ground that they are little. They have their rights but not to the exclusion of the rights of the older ones.

"Mother, can I take Jane with me this afternoon? I'll be careful of her. She can play with Ruth."

Mary Jane while I visit with Ruth."
"Sure she won't be in your way, dear? She needs a lot of watching or she will get into mischief. She's only three you know."
"She won't be a bit of trouble and she likes to go. I'll keep an eye on her."

When the older sister takes that attitude she does so because her mother set the stage for it. Taking little sister to a privilege, not a burden. There will not be ill concealed antagonism between the sisters when this accord has been established but there will be ill concealed dislike when the presence and care of the little one is forced upon the older one.

Setting the right attitude between brothers and sisters is a nice bit of work for mother. It pays in its results.

In the Long Ago

From The Register Files 14 Years Ago Today

SEPTEMBER 8, 1919

The month of September had started out as one of the greatest building months in Santa Ana's history, as permits since Monday, September 1, which had chanced to be a holiday, had totaled $38,355. One day's record had shown seven permits aggregating $35,350 issued by Building Inspector Thomas Ash. The largest single permit issued during the first week of the month was for a $19,000 fireproof garage building at Sixth and Broadway, for J. M. Donley of Long Beach.

J. Simon Fluor was contractor and the building would be occupied by Charles L. Davis, Chandler and Cleveland dealer.
